Methodology Of Sociological Research General Problems:

Methodology of Sociological Research S. Nowak, 1977-04-30 This is the first part of a textbook for students of sociology and for those students of other social sciences who wish to make use in their work of the research methods elaborated in the course of the development of empirical sociology over the last few decades The development of empirical sociological research in our country and the growing demand both for a practical application of its results and for graduates of sociological studies in various fields of social practice testifies to a much broader trend It is evidence of a desire to base our understanding and conscious transformation of social phenomena on a sound scientific perception of social processes and the mechanisms governing them The increasing volume of studies in Poland is accompanied by a growing need for a particular type of research method namely one in which questions addressed to the sociologist would be answered in a manner as free as possible of conclusions based on impressions and defining as unambiguously as possible both the limits of the generality and the degree of validity of the inferences drawn from the results of the research These conditions are met by the so called standardized methods of investigating social phenomena which together with statistical methods of analyzing collected material constitute the principal means of conducting sociological research in the world today Methodology of Sociological Research S. Methodology of Social Research Dr. Vidyapati

Gautam, 2021-09-11 Social scientists are divided into camps of support for particular research techniques These disputes relate to the historical core of social theory positivism and antipositivism structure and agency While very different in many aspects both qualitative and quantitative approaches involve a systematic interaction between theory and data The choice of method often depends largely on what the researcher intends to investigate For example a researcher concerned with drawing a statistical generalization across an entire population may administer a survey questionnaire to a representative sample population There are no laws in social science that parallel the laws in natural science Law in social science is a universal generalization about a class of facts A fact is an observed phenomenon and observation means it has been seen heard or otherwise experienced by the researcher A theory is a systematic explanation for the observations that relate to a particular aspect of social life Concepts are the basic building blocks of theory and are abstract elements representing classes of phenomena Axioms or postulates are basic assertions assumed to be true Propositions are conclusions drawn about the relationships among concepts based on analysis of axioms This book is designed for students at the beginning of their journey in social research It aims to provide an accessible practically oriented introduction to social research methods The research methods included in this book are selected on the basis of their relevance to contemporary social research practice

Causality in Sociological Research Jakub Karpinski,2012-12-06 The general treatment of problems connected with the causal conditioning of phenomena has traditionally been the domain of philosophy but when one examines the relationships taking place in the various fields the study of such conditionings belongs to the empirical sciences Sociology is no exception in that respect In that discipline we note a certain paradox Many problems connected with the causal conditioning of phenomena have been raised in sociology in relatively recent times and that process marked its empirical or even so called empiricist trend That trend labelled positivist seems in this case to be in contradiction with a certain type of positivism Those authors who describe positivism usually include the Humean tradition in its genealogy and remembering Hume s criticism of the concept of cause speak about positivism as about a trend which is inclined to treat lightly the study of causes and confines itself to the statements on co occurrence of phenomena
