Approaches to History Sabyasachi Bhattacharya, 2011 History as a social science is arguably more self reflective than associated disciplines in that family Other social scientists seem to see little reason to look beyond the paradigm they are developing in the present times Historians on the other hand tend to depend on the cumulative process of the development of their craft and the fund of accumulated knowledge Yet while this is acknowledged in the practice of research Historiography in itself as a subject of study has rarely found its place in the syllabi of Indian universities Knowledge of Historiography is taken for granted when a scholar plunges into research In an attempt to address this lacuna the Indian Council of Historical Research ICHR has planned a series of volumes on Historiography comprising articles by subject specialists commissioned by the ICHR The first volume in the series Approaches to History Essays in Indian Historiography brings to the readers the first fruits of that endeavour While the essays encompass areas of research presently at the frontiers of new research scholars will also find the bibliographies accompanying the essays of significant appeal Power of Articulation Matti

Kortesoja,2023-06-12 This open access book is the first book that attempts to treat the notion of articulation as an important concept to be added to the lexicon of communication studies and social science It constitutes the first comprehensive and systematic discussion of articulation in English providing an introduction of its usages and what has occurred on its travels from one theoretical realm to another in political philosophy structural linguistics new economic anthropology cultural studies and post Marxist discourse theory The proposed research takes a relational approach to society and social action in a way that recognises their relative autonomy It entails an introduction of the discursive turn in the imagery of society and social change thereby proving that the relational concept of articulation Gliederung has potential to consider society as both a structured complex whole and a product of human interaction Fipa Families Kathleen R. Smythe,2006-05-30 Ufipa a labor reserve for Tanganyika witnessed minimal colonial development Instead evangelization by White Fathers Catholic missionaries began in the 1870s By the 1950s the missionaries had secured varying degrees of political economic and social authority in the region witnessed by the fact that the vast majority of Fipa had converted to Catholicism Fipa Families examines how this happened from the Fipa perspective Written primarily for scholars and students of African colonial history mission history and family and childhood history this study is based on a rich collection of oral and documentary sources Working with this wealth of information Smythe breaks new ground in placing African social and moral concerns parallel to those of missionaries resurrecting the study of the family rather than kinship lineage or clan within African history and demonstrating at the level of the family and village the ways in which ideas of socialization reproduction and education were challenged and re created in the colonial context in Ufipa Initially employees of the mission sought to oversee the education and moral upbringing of at least one child from each family substituting boarding school for the care relatives would otherwise have provided A few mission parents even opted to forego the multiple benefits of grandchildren so a child could pursue the celibate path of a religious vocation The opportunities of the Catholic Church complemented and competed with Fipa processes of social and biological reproduction and Catholicism became part of the fabric of Fipa society because of and despite its resonance with Fipa culture At the heart of both Fipa and missionary concerns were the processes of socialization social reproduction and biological reproduction processes carried out within the context of the family The Problem of Slavery as History Joseph C. Miller,2012-03-27 Why did slavery an accepted evil for thousands of years suddenly become regarded during the eighteenth century as an abomination so compelling that Western governments took up the cause of abolition in ways that transformed the modern world Joseph C Miller turns this classic question on its head by rethinking the very nature of slavery arguing that it must be viewed generally as a process rather than as an institution Tracing the global history of slaving over thousands of years Miller reveals the shortcomings of Western narratives that define slavery by the same structures and power relations regardless of places and times concluding instead that slaving is a process which can be understood fully only as imbedded in changing circumstances Africa, Empire and World Disorder A. G.

Hopkins,2020-09-24 This volume brings together important articles from the Cambridge historian A G Hopkins and reflect the enlargement and evolution of historical studies during the last half century The essays cover four of the principal historiographical developments of the period the extraordinary revolution that has led to the writing of non Western indigenous history the revitalization of new types of imperial history the now ubiquitous engagement with global history including a reinterpretation of American Empire and the current revival of economic history after several decades of neglect
