Russian and Soviet Policy in Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, 1911-1931 Peter Shêng Hao Tang, 1959 Russian and Soviet policy in Manchuria and Outer Mongolia. 1911-1931. Introd. by P.E. Mosely, 1959 Russian and Soviet Policy in Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, 1911-1931 Shêng-hao Tang, 1952 Russian and Soviet Policy in Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, 1911-1931, by Peter Sheng-hao Tang Peter S. H. Tang, 1958 Russian and Soviet Policy in Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, 1911-1931, Etc Peter Shêng-hao TANG, 1959 The Russian General Staff and Asia, 1860-1917 Alex Marshall, 2006-11-22 This new book examines the role of the Tsarist General Staff in studying and administering Russia's Asian borderlands. It considers the nature of the Imperial Russian state, the institutional characteristics of the General Staff and Russia's relationship with Asia. During the nineteenth century, Russia was an important player in the so-called Great Game in central Asia. Between 1800 and 1917, officers of the Russian General Staff travelled extensively through Turkey, central Asia, and the Far East, gathering intelligence that assisted in the formation of future war plans. It goes on to consider tactics of imperial expansion and the role of military intelligence and war planning with respect to important regions including the Caucasus, central Asia, and the Far East. In the light of detailed archival research, it investigates objectively questions such as the possibility of Russia seizing the Bosphorus Straits and the probability of an expedition to India. Overall, this book provides a comprehensive account of the Russian General Staff, its role in Asia, and of Russian military planning with respect to a region that remains highly strategically significant today Russian Politics in Exile F. Patrikeeff, 2002-08-06 This work explores Russian life in Northern Manchuria during the period of political, economic, and social upheaval leading to its eventual de facto control by Japan and disruption of the balance of power in the Northeast Asian Region. Presenting a fresh interpretation of the combined impact of the 1929 Sino-Soviet Conflict and the onset of the Great Depression, the book examines the interplay of Soviet and emigré Russian interests in Manchuria and their role in generating the instability that led to Japanese intervention and Russian decline Russia in Manchuria Paul Dukes, 2022-01-31 Manchuria, the name given to China's North-eastern provinces by foreign powers, has been contested by China, Russia, and Japan in particular over many centuries. This book surveys the history of Manchuria, focusing particularly on the Russian and Soviet perspective. It outlines early colonisation of the region and examines the importance of the Chinese Eastern Railway, a branch of the Trans-Siberian Railway, and the remarkable railway city of Harbin for consolidating the Russian presence in the region and for developing the region's economy. It goes on to consider twentieth-century developments, including the Japanese invasion and the puppet state of Manchukuo. Throughout, the book reflects on the nature of empire, especially Russian-Soviet imperialism, and its similarities to and differences from other nations' imperial ventures Anglo-Soviet Relations, 1917-1921, Volume 1 Richard H. Ullman, 2019-01-29 In an intriguing work based largely on new sources, Richard H. Ullman shows how the British government, the politicians, civil servants, military, and naval officers

dealt with the problem of Russia during the critical period between the Bolshevik Revolution in November 1917 and Britain's de facto recognition of the Soviet government in March 1921. Volume 1 describes the tragic misunderstandings and desperate hopes of the British in the troubled year before the Armistice which stands as a watershed in the history of Anglo-Soviet policy. As diplomacy failed, British forces found themselves fighting not only in North Russia but in the Caucasus and on the frontiers of India. The second volume to be published later will cover the story to 1921. Dr Ullman's exciting portrayal of these events is a companion work to George Kennan's several volume study of the same period.

Creating a Chinese Harbin James H. Carter, 2019-06-30 James H. Carter outlines the birth of Chinese nationalism in an unlikely setting: the international city of Harbin. Planned and built by Russian railway engineers, the city rose quickly from the Manchurian plain, changing from a small fishing village to a modern city in less than a generation. Russian, Chinese, Korean, Polish, Jewish, French, and British residents filled this multiethnic city on the Sungari River. The Chinese took over Harbin after the October Revolution and ruled it from 1918 until the Japanese founded the puppet state of Manchukuo in 1932. In his account of the radical changes that this unique city experienced over a brief span of time, Carter examines the majority Chinese population and its developing Chinese identity in an urban area of fifty languages. Originally, Carter argues, its nascent nationalism defined itself against the foreign presence in the city while using foreign resources to modernize the area. Early versions of Chinese nationalism embraced both nation and state. By the late 1920s, the two strands had separated to such an extent that Chinese police fired on Chinese student protesters. This division eased the way for Japanese occupation; the Chinese state structure proved a fruitful source of administrative collaboration for the area's new rulers in the 1930s.
