Sacred Void Spatial Images Of Work And Ritual Among The Giriama Of Kenya:

The Sacred Void David Parkin,1991-07-26 David Parkin shows how indigenous African rites and beliefs may be reworked to accommodate a variety of economic systems The Sacred Void David Parkin,2006-03-16 In this innovative study David Parkin shows how indigenous African rites and beliefs may be reworked to accommodate a variety of economic systems new spatial and ecological relations among communities and the locally variable influences of Islam and Christianity The Giriama people of Kenya include pastoralists living in the hinterland farmers who work land closer to the coast and migrants who earn money as laborers or fisherman on the coast itself Wherever they live they revere an ancient and formerly fortified capital located in the pastoralist hinterland which few of them ever see or visit It is the site of occasional large scale ceremonies and becomes especially important at times of national crisis It then acts as a moral core of Giriama society and a symbolic defense against total domination and assimilation Contemporary Futures Sandra Wallman,2003-12-16 In industrial societies imagining the future is a serious business our assumptions about the future govern the present management of domestic national and global resources and are projected some would say inflicted on societies whose visions are different Contemporary Futures focuses not so much on whether the future can be known but on interpreting the way we and others picture it The contributors all social anthropologists explore the effects that this picture has on the present on group identity and belief in the self and its survival on our relationships with other cultures and on the future itself They provide a cross cultural perspective on a range of futures visualised at this time and discusses the implications of

Swahili Muslim Publics and Postcolonial Experience Kai Kresse,2018-12-17 Swahili Muslim Publics and Postcolonial Experience is an exploration of the ideas and public discussions that have shaped and defined the experience of Kenyan coastal Muslims Focusing on Kenyan postcolonial history Kai Kresse isolates the ideas that coastal Muslims have used to separate themselves from their upcountry Christian countrymen Kresse looks back to key moments and key texts pamphlets newspapers lectures speeches radio discussions as a way to map out the postcolonial experience and how it is negotiated in the coastal Muslim community On one level this is a historical ethnography of how and why the content of public discussion matters so much to communities at particular points in time Kresse shows how intellectual practices can lead to a regional understanding of the world and society On another level this ethnography of the postcolonial experience also reveals dimensions of intellectual practice in religious communities and thus provides an alternative model that offers a non Western way to understand regional conceptual frameworks and intellectual practice

Overtly Muslim, Covertly Boni Mark R.J. Faulkner, 2006-05-01 This volume explores the way of life of the Boni community a hunter gatherer people that straddle the Kenya Somali border in East Africa The Boni converted to Islam some fifty years ago and the reasons for this both internal and external to the community are identified The book argues that former indigenous religious activity far from having died out is now being renegotiated so as to reflect an evolving Boni self identity in a multi ethnic setting as well as allowing the fermentation of resistance in the face of attempts at cultural hegemony advanced by outside forces Employing a phenomenological approach and a methodology based on participant observation this volume identifies three contrasting spheres of religious activity the bush the village centre and individual homesteads

Postcolonial Subjectivities in Africa Pnina Werbner, 2002 This is the third volume in a trilogy on identity memory and subjectivity Contributors to the book share an ambition to combine personal political and existential dimensions in detailed evocations of the ambitions and vulnerabilities of contemporary Africans Their essays aim to forge alliances between patient local scholarship and adventurous theoretical speculation that should inspire new research and caution against bland generalizations about African marginality

In the Society of Nature Philippe Descola, 1994 The Achuar Indians live in the remote forest reaches of the Upper Amazon and have developed sophisticated strategies of resource management Philippe Descola who has gathered material over several years of fieldwork documents their rich knowledge of the environment He explains how this technical knowledge of the increasingly threatened Amazonian ecosystems is interwoven with cosmological ideas that endow nature with the characteristics of society Combining a symbolist approach with an ecological analysis the book contributes a new theory of the social construction of nature

The Protection of Traditional Knowledge at the Frontiers of Drug Discovery
Peter S Harrison, 2024-09-19 This book concerns the often fractious interface between drug discovery and commercialisation environmental degradation the biodiversity crisis the exploitation of indigenous peoples and the destruction of their culture the right to health inequalities of power and the ability of the law to protect knowledge For millennia medicinal plants have provided a trove of treatments for human ailments and the key to that treasure has been the traditional knowledge of the indigenous peoples who have lived alongside these plants More recently that knowledge has been taken often without consent or recompense by Western science as a springboard for the development of pharmaceutical agents As a response to threats to biodiversity and indigenous culture international mechanisms have created or are creating enforceable rights for indigenous peoples to control such knowledge With a background in pharmacology and molecular biology and significant experience as a lawyer in pharmaceutical and biotech patent litigation the author brings a fresh perspective to understanding the difficulties of enforcing such rights and in particular examines whether there is a philosophically justifiable limit to the downstream scope of such rights This book is aimed at all those with an interest in the control of indigenous genetic knowledge and the protection of indigenous culture whether academics anthropologists or pharmaceutical researchers and those seeking to make indigenous rights work as activists legislators or practising lawyers
