Love & Forgiveness Roger Turner Chaplain (Ret,2011-06 Love Forgiveness is a book about walking with God It follows the all too typical believer's path of initially ignoring God to searching for Him and finally to serving Him In its pages are a generous sharing of stories of faith of how God reaches out to us regardless of our circumstances and of how He can change our lives both now and in the hereafter Chuck Colson and I got to know Roger Turner in 1993 on our trip to India and South East Asian capitals where we visited a number of prisons It was evident then that Chaplain Turner was far more interested in the inmates than merely in inspecting the prisons or their environment He was focused on them as sons and daughters of our loving Heavenly Father The insights in his book reflect the journey of a man who was called to reach out to prisoners This is a book worth reading for it is as relevant to the man and woman on the street as it is to the prison inmate Ron Nikkel President and CEO of Prison Fellowship International Chaplain Roger Turner may have retired vocationally but his faith in Christ remains strong and active in the pages of this book He shares stories from his own life and those gleaned from years of work with prison ministries both before and after his retirement from the U S Department of Commerce

This book serves as an introduction to using online teaching technologies and hybrid forms of teaching for experiential learning and civic engagement. Service learning has kept pace neither with the rapid growth in e learning in all its forms nor with the reality that an increasing number of students are learning online without exposure to the benefits of this powerful pedagogy. Eservice learning, electronic service learning, combines service learning and online learning and enables the delivery of the instruction and/or the service to occur partially or fully online. Eservice learning allows students anywhere, regardless of geography, physical constraints, work schedule, or other access limitations, to experience service learning. It reciprocally also equips online learning with a powerful tool for engaging students. In eservice learning, the core components of service learning and reflection may take a different form due to the online medium; for example, reflection often occurs through discussion board interactions, journals, wikis, or blogs in an eservice learning course. Moreover, the service, though still community based, creates a world of opportunities to connect students with communities across the globe as well as at their very own doorstep. This book introduces the reader to the four emerging types of eservice learning: from Extreme EService Learning (XE SL) classes where 100% of the instruction and 100% of the service occur online to three distinct forms of hybrid where either the service or the instruction are delivered wholly online with students, for instance, providing online products for far away community partners or in which both are delivered on site and online. It considers the instructional potential of common mobile technologies: phones, tablets, and mobile reading devices. The authors also address potential limitations such as technology challenges, difficulties sustaining three-way communication among the instructor, community partner, and students, and added workload. The book includes research studies on effectiveness as well as examples of practice such as drafting grants for a community partner, an informational technology class, building online communities for an autism group, and an online education class providing virtual mentoring to at-risk students in New Orleans from across the country.
