Managing Military Readiness Institute for National Strategic Studies (U.S.), Center for Strategic Research (U.S.), 2017-04-04 This paper presents an analytic framework that builds from previous work to yield the systematic and defensible readiness analysis that must underlie decisions ranging from budget allocation to force employment and even strategy development To manage readiness the Department of Defense DOD must balance the supply and demand of deployable forces around the world The readiness of an individual unit is the result of a series of time intensive force generation processes that ultimately combine qualified people working equipment and unit training to produce military capabilities suitable for executing the defense strategy Therefore managing readiness is as much about understanding the complexities of human resource management and the technical details of weapons system availability as it is about measuring the ability of U.S. forces to support the national security strategy Policymakers military members and command leaders plus senior Department of Defense team staff ROTC military science and human resource management students may be interested in this illustrated resource about military readiness prior to national security situation deployments Related products Military Engagement and Forward Presence Down But Not Out as Tools to Shape and Win is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/military-engagement-and-forward-presence-down-but-not-out-tools-shape-and-win> Russian Military Power Building a Military To Support Great Power Aspirations is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/russian-military-power-building-a-military-to-support-great-power-aspirations> The Armed Forces Officer is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/armed-forces-officer> Other products produced by the US Army National Defense University Press can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/agency/national-defense-university/ndu> Federal Supply Management (implementation of Military Supply Regulations) ...
