Modelling Nature: An Opinionated Introduction to Scientific Representation Roman Frigg, James Nguyen, 2020-09-02 This monograph offers a critical introduction to current theories of how scientific models represent their target systems Representation is important because it allows scientists to study a model to discover features of reality The authors provide a map of the conceptual landscape surrounding the issue of scientific representation arguing that it consists of multiple intertwined problems They provide an encyclopaedic overview of existing attempts to answer these questions and they assess their strengths and weaknesses The book also presents a comprehensive statement of their alternative proposal the DEKI account of representation which they have developed over the last few years They show how the account works in the case of material as well as non material models how it accommodates the use of mathematics in scientific modelling and how it sheds light on the relation between representation in science and art The issue of representation has generated a sizeable literature which has been growing fast in particular over the last decade This makes it hard for novices to get a handle on the topic because so far there is no book length introduction that would guide them through the discussion Likewise researchers may require a comprehensive review that they can refer to for critical evaluations This book meets the needs of both groups

Wollheim, Wittgenstein, and Pictorial Representation Gary Kemp, Gabriele Mras, 2016-06-10 Pictorial representation is one of the core questions in aesthetics and philosophy of art What is a picture How do pictures represent things This collection of specially commissioned chapters examines the influential thesis that the core of pictorial representation is not resemblance but seeing in in particular as found in the work of Richard Wollheim We can see a passing cloud as a rabbit but we also see a rabbit in the clouds Seeing in is an imaginative act of the kind employed by Leonardo's pupils when he told them to see what they could for example battle scenes in a wall of cracked plaster This collection examines the idea of seeing in as it appears primarily in the work of Wollheim but also its origins in the work of Wittgenstein An international roster of contributors examine topics such as the contrast between seeing in and seeing as whether or in what sense Wollheim can be thought of as borrowing from Wittgenstein the idea that all perception is conceptual or propositional the metaphor of figure and ground and its relation to the notion of two foldedness the importance in art of emotion and the imagination Wollheim Wittgenstein and Pictorial Representation Seeing as and Seeing in is essential reading for students and scholars of aesthetics and philosophy of art and also of interest to those in related subjects such as philosophy of mind and art theory

Film, Art, and the Third Culture Murray Smith, 2017-03-24 In the mid 1950s C P Snow began his campaign against the two cultures the debilitating divide as he saw it between traditional literary intellectual culture and the culture of the sciences urging in its place a third culture which would draw upon and integrate the resources of disciplines spanning the natural and social sciences the arts and the humanities Murray Smith argues that with the ever increasing influence of evolutionary theory and neuroscience and the pervasive presence of digital technologies Snow's challenge is more relevant than ever Working out how the scientific and everyday images of the world hang together is no simple matter In Film Art and the Third Culture Smith explores this question in relation to the art technology and science of film in particular and to the world of the arts and aesthetic activity more generally In the first part of his book Smith explores the general strategies and principles necessary to build a third cultural or naturalized approach to film and art one that roots itself in an appreciation of scientific knowledge and method Smith then goes on to focus on the role of emotion in film and the other arts as an extended experiment in the third cultural integration of ideas on emotion spanning the arts humanities and sciences While acknowledging that not all of the questions we ask are scientific in nature Smith contends that we cannot disregard the insights wrought by taking a naturalized approach to the aesthetics of film and the other arts

How to Do Science with Models Axel Gelfert, 2015-12-21 Taking scientific practice as its starting point this book charts the complex territory of models used in science It examines what scientific models are and what their function is Reliance on models is pervasive in science and scientists often need to construct models in order to explain or predict anything of interest at all The diversity of kinds of models one finds in science ranging from toy models and scale models to theoretical and mathematical models has attracted attention not only from scientists but also from philosophers sociologists and historians of science This has given rise to a wide variety of case studies that look at the different uses to which models have been put in specific scientific contexts By exploring current debates on the use and building of models via cutting edge examples drawn from physics and biology the book provides broad insight into the methodology of modelling in the natural sciences It pairs specific arguments with introductory material relating to the ontology and the function of models and provides some historical context to the debates as well as a sketch of general positions in the philosophy of scientific models in the process
