EDITED BY SAM COLE AND HENRY LUCAS. ,1979 Economic Models for Policy Making Solomon Cohen, 2013-05-02 Over the past decades many different kinds of models have been developed that have been of use to policy makers but until now the different approaches have not been brought together with a view to enhancing the systematic unification and evaluation of these models This new volume aims to fill this gap by bringing together four decades worth of work by S I Cohen on economic modelling for policy making Work on older models has been rewritten and brought fully up to date and these older models have therefore been brought back to the fore both to assess how they influenced more recent models and to see how they could be used today The focus of the book is on models for development policies in developing economies but there are some chapters that relate to economic policies in transition and developed economies The policy areas covered are of typical interest in developing and transition economies They include those relating to trade liberalization reforms sustainable development industrial development agrarian reform growth and distribution human resource development and education public goods and income transfers Each chapter contains a brief assessment of the empirical literature on the economic effects of the policy measures discussed in the chapter The book presents a platform of economic modelling that can serve as a refresher for practising professionals as well as a reference companion for graduates engaging in economic modelling and policy preparations The Relevance of Economic Theories C. H. Feinstein, Josef Pajestka, 1980-11-27 Transport Models in Urban Planning Practices Marco te Brömmelstroet, Luca Bertolini, 2016-04-08 This book explores how transportation models can play a role in a changing transport planning and policy making context Most models are rooted in decades of development work and are geared to offer value free academic and explicit knowledge to transport planning experts However planning practice has changed dramatically over the years resulting in a less technical rational view on the use of such knowledge especially so in early strategy making phases More and more complex policy goals integration of a wide area of other policy domains a wider ever changing and much more mixed group of planning participants and much more focus on wicked problems The book maps how this influences the effectiveness of transport modelling exercises and explores several state of the art implementations This book was published as a special issue of Transport Reviews

Usefulness of the Model Cities Program to the Elderly United States. Congress. Senate. Special Committee on Aging,1968 The Philosophy of Development Revisited Hershlag,2023-07-31 An Introduction to Health Planning for Developing Health Systems Andrew Green,2007-01-11 Health planning is a critical component when responding to the health needs of low and middle income countries characterised by particularly stringent resource constraints The major communicable diseases such as AIDS TB and malaria often appear in parallel with growing non communicable diseases including heart disease and diabetes and yet resources are often less than the levels recommended by the World Health Organisation for basic health care The new edition of this well respected text explains the importance of health planning in both developing regions such as Africa and those in transition such as Central and Eastern Europe It stresses the importance of understanding the national and international context in which planning occurs and provides an up to date analysis of the major current policy issues including health reforms Separate chapters are dedicated to the distinct issues of finance for health care and human resource planning The various techniques used at each stage of the planning process are explained starting with the situational analysis and then looking in turn at priority setting option appraisal programming implementation monitoring and evaluation The book ends by examining the challenges facing planners in the 21st century particularly in the light of growing globalisation A major theme of the book is the need to recognise and reconcile the inevitable tension that lies between value judgements and rational decision making As such in addition to introducing techniques such as costing and economic appraisal it also outlines techniques such as stakeholder analysis for understanding the relative attitudes and power of different groups in planning decisions Each chapter includes a comprehensive bibliography including key websites a summary and exercises to help the reader practise techniques and better understand the content The book argues that all health professionals and community groups should be involved in the planning process for it to be effective and will therefore appeal to anyone involved in planning Usefulness of the Model Cities Program to the Elderly: Atlanta, Ga United States.
