Political Economy Of West African Agriculture:

The Political Economy of West African Agriculture Keith Hart, 1982-05-31 West Africa's agriculture has for 150 years been heavily geared toward export yet the region is one of the world's poorest Keith Hart examines this question focusing particularly on how this situation has affected the indigenous peoples of West Africa Commerce has grown impressively but productivity remains low and capital accumulation is retarded The reasons exist primarily in internal conditions shaping social institutions Before during and since colonialism the particular problems of these preindustrial states have shaped agricultural development more than the pressure supposedly emanating from the world system of international capitalism This book following the classical economists as well as Marx and Lenin argues for the necessity of rapid capitalist penetration into West African agriculture The book is also a readable introduction to the history and ethnography of the region as a whole

The Political Economy of Risk and Choice in Senegal John Waterbury, 2005-08-12 First Published in 1987 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informal company

The Political Economy of Africa Vishnu Padayachee, 2010-06-10 The Political Economy of Africa addresses the real possibilities for African development in the coming decades when seen in the light of the continent's economic performance over the last half century This involves an effort to emancipate our thinking from the grip of western economic models that have often ignored Africa's diversity in their rush to peddle simple nostrums of dubious merit The book addresses the seemingly intractable economic problems of the African continent and traces their origins It also brings out the instances of successful economic change and the possibilities for economic revival and renewal As well as surveying the variety of contemporary situations the text will provide readers with a firm grasp of the historical background to the topic It explores issues such as employment and poverty social policy and security structural adjustment programs and neo liberal globalization majority rule and democratization taxation and resource mobilization It contains a selection of country specific case studies from a range of international contributors many of whom have lived and worked in Africa The book will be of particular interest to higher level students in political economy development studies area studies Africa and economics in general

Political Economy of Hunger Jean Drèze, Amartya Sen, 1991-02-21 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 3.0 IGO licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations WIDER The World Institute for Development Economics Research established in 1984 started work in Helsinki in 1985 with the financial support of the Government of Finland The principal purpose of the Institute is to help identify and meet the need for policy oriented socio economic research on pressing global and development problems and their inter relationships WIDER's research projects are grouped into three main themes hunger and poverty money finance and trade and development and technological transformation Volume II deals with famine prevention paying particular attention to sub Saharan Africa The topics covered include the problems of early warning and early action the politics of famine prevention the influence of market responses the role of cash support and employment provision in protecting threatened food entitlements and long term issues of reduction of famine vulnerability In addition to general analyses the book contains a number of case studies of failures and successes in famine prevention both in South Asia and in sub Saharan Africa The Political Economy of Hunger: Volume 2: Famine Prevention Jean Drèze, Amartya Sen, 1990 Part of a major report on world hunger instigated by the World Institute for Development Economics Research this volume deals with possible solutions to the problem of regular outbreaks of famine in various parts of the world Political Development and the New Realism in Sub-Saharan Africa David Ernest Apter, Carl Gustav Rosberg, 1994 Since the 1950s David Apter and Carl Rosenberg have been among the leading American scholars in African Studies In this volume they along with other major specialists in the field explore the new configurations of African politics With tentative efforts at a revival of democracy now taking place it seems appropriate to reassess the theoretical debates and empirical themes that have characterized postwar Sub Saharan African politics Focusing on new realism that has emerged among Africanists since the dismantling of colonial rule the essays are presented as a corrective both to the initial euphoria informing African studies and to the later tendency to place blame for all Africa's political and economic difficulties on the receding specter of colonial oppression State and Society in Pre-colonial Asante T. C. McCaskie, 2003-10-30 Scholarship on the West African kingdom of Asante is at the leading edge of Africanist research In this book T C McCaskie gives a detailed and richly nuanced historical portrait of precolonial Asante His delineation of state and society in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries is centred on an extended analysis of the crucial ritual of the annual Kumase odwira festival It is at once a profound historical reconstruction of an African polity and a deeply informed meditation on key Asante concepts and ideas Throughout the book the Asante experience is consistently discussed in a relation to a broad range of historiography and critical theory Food and Farm Christina H. Gladwin, Kathleen Truman, 1989 At no time in this century has there been such global uncertainty concerning the future stability of food and farm While many Third World countries are unable to produce an adequate food supply for their inhabitants the future of family farms in industrialized countries is jeopardized because food is overly abundant there African Economies and the Politics of Permanent Crisis, 1979-1999 Nicolas Van de Walle, 2001-09-24 This Book explains why African countries have remained mired in a disastrous economic crisis since the late 1970s It shows that dynamics internal to African state structures largely explain this failure to overcome economic difficulties rather than external pressures on these same structures as is often argued Far from being prevented from undertaking reforms by societal interest and pressure groups clientelism within the state elite ideological factors and low state capacity have resulted in some limited reform but much prevarication and manipulation of the reform process by governments which do not really believe that reform will be effective Transforming Gender and Food Security in the Global South Jemimah Njuki, John Parkins, Amy

Kaler, 2016-11-25 Drawing on studies from Africa Asia and South America this book provides empirical evidence and conceptual explorations of the gendered dimensions of food security It investigates how food security and gender inequity are conceptualized within interventions assesses the impacts and outcomes of gender responsive programs on food security and gender equity and addresses diverse approaches to gender research and practice that range from descriptive and analytical to strategic and transformative The chapters draw on diverse theoretical perspectives including transformative learning feminist theory deliberative democracy and technology adoption As a result they add important conceptual and empirical material to a growing literature on the challenges of gender equity in agricultural production A unique feature of this book is the integration of both analytic and transformative approaches to understanding gender and food security The analytic material shows how food security interventions enable women and men to meet the long term nutritional needs of their households and to enhance their economic position The transformative chapters also document efforts to build durable and equitable relationships between men and women addressing underlying social cultural and economic causes of gender inequality Taken together these combined approaches enable women and men to reflect on gendered divisions of labor and resources related to food and to reshape these divisions in ways which benefit families and communities Co published with the International Development Research Centre Africa and the Disciplines Robert H. Bates, V. Y. Mudimbe, Jean F.

O'Barr, 1993-12 African Studies contrary to some accounts is not a separate continent in the world of American higher education Its intellectual borders touch those of economics literature history philosophy and art its history is the story of the world both ancient and modern This is the clear conclusion of Africa and the Disciplines a book that addresses the question Why should Africa be studied in the American university This question was put to distinguished scholars in the social sciences and humanities prominent Africanists who are also leaders in their various disciplines Their responses make a strong and enlightening case for the importance of research on Africa to the academy Paul Collier's essay for example shows how studies of African economies have clarified our understanding of the small open economies and contributed to the theory of repressed inflation and to a number of areas in microeconomics as well Art historian Suzanne Blier uses the terms and concepts that her discipline has applied to Africa to analyze the habits of mind and social practice of her own field Christopher L Miller describes the confounding and enriching impact of Africa on European and American literary theory Political scientist Richard Sklar outlines Africa's contributions to the study of political modernization pluralism and rational choice These essays together with others from scholars in history anthropology philosophy and comparative literature attest to the influence of African research throughout the curriculum For many knowledge from Africa seems distant and exotic These powerful essays suggest the contrary that such knowledge has shaped the way in which scholars in various disciplines understand their worlds Eloquent testimony to Africa's necessary place in the mainstream of American education this book should alter the academy's understanding of the significance of African research its definition of core and periphery in human knowledge These essays are at once exceptionally thoughtful and remarkably comprehensive Not only do they offer an unusually interesting overview of African studies they are also striking for the depth and freshness of their insights This is the sort of volume from which both seasoned regional experts and students stand to learn an enormous amount John Comaroff University of Chicago These essays provide an important perspective on the evolution of African studies and offer insights into what Africa can mean for the different humanistic and social science disciplines Many show in ingenious and subtle ways the enormous potential that the study of Africa has for confounding the main tenets of established fields One could only hope that the strictures expressed here would be taken to heart in the scholarly world Robert L Tignor Princeton University

Structural Adjustment and Mass Poverty in Ghana Kwabena Donkor, 2019-01-22 First published in 1997 this volume looks at the rationale for the implementation of and the economic and social effect of the World Bank Structural Adjustment Policy SAP in Ghana from the early 1980s to the early 1990s It shifts the focus from a primarily economic evaluation of these programmes and includes issues such as their impact on vulnerable groups within the Ghanaian society and on poverty in general Therefore it must be asked whether the ordinary Ghanaian has gained anything from any wealth creation in Ghana The book will be useful for both academic and policy purposes

No Condition Is Permanent Sara S. Berry, 1993-09-15 No condition is permanent a popular West African slogan expresses Sara S Berry's theme the obstacles to African agrarian development never stay the same Her book explores the complex way African economy and society are tied to issues of land and labor offering a comparative study of agrarian change in four rural economies in sub Saharan Africa including two that experienced long periods of expanding peasant production for export southern Ghana and southwestern Nigeria a settler economy central Kenya and a rural labor reserve northeastern Zambia The resources available to African farmers have changed dramatically over the course of the twentieth century Berry asserts that the ways resources are acquired and used are shaped not only by the incorporation of a rural area into colonial later national and global political economies but also by conflicts over culture power and property within and beyond rural communities By tracing the various debates over rights to resources and their effects on agricultural production and farmers uses of income Berry presents agrarian change as a series of on going processes rather than a set of discrete successes and failures No Condition Is Permanent enriches the discussion of agrarian development by showing how multidisciplinary studies of local agrarian history can constructively contribute to development policy The book is a contribution both to African agrarian history and to debates over the role of agriculture in Africa's recent economic crises
