Words from an Open Heart

Jessica Cronk,2013-07-23 Hi my name is Jessica Cronk Im 27 years old I have a disability known as spastic quadriplegic cerebral palsy with stable hydrocephalus Because of this Im wheelchair dependent and weaker on the right side of my body Im easily startled and my head is a bit bigger than most because of extra fluid around my brain Despite my disability and the daily issues that come along with it Ive always enjoyed writing I began writing short stories in elementary school My very first stories were titled Cheetahs The Magic Unicorn and The Flying Turtle I loved Elementary school The teachers and my friends always encouraged me to keep writing and to make the most of my creative abilities As time passed I began exploring other forms of writing particularly poetry From middle school on I was complimented on the creativity expressed in my writing Not only did I enjoy writing it was the one avenue that allowed me to truly express myselfwhether I was writing down my thoughts feelings or just losing myself in a world of my own creation In my writing I learned I had no limitations At least thats what I thought at the time A year after I graduated high school I enrolled in an English course at Macomb Community College I did all right but it was very difficult to face the fact that I didnt fully grasp all areas of writing as well as thought I had after all this time I struggled with grammer and sentence structure There were many times I became discouraged because I had such a difficult time with basic writing principles It was tough but it was a good learning experience My professor really worked with me In fact he approached me after class and asked if Id consider writing a biography I was flattered that he thought so highly of my writing I was also very grateful for the opportunity he was offering me but that just wasnt something I wanted to do at the time and I respectfully declined I decided then to take a break from academics The long days on campus took a toll on me mentally and physically During this time I became acquainted with a woman named Linda Oleszko who ran a small animal rescue known as Tiny Paws Rescue I was curious to know what it was all about so I began inquiring Near the end of our conversation she said if youd like you could come volunteer for a day That way youd be able to check things out yourself I was hesitant at first but I took her up on the offer Not long after I became a regular among the rest of the volunteers It was unbelievable I had always wanted to work with animals since I was a little child Now this childhood dream had become a reality You see I was often told that the chronic pain weakness my mom took me to the doctor They performed several tests but didnt find any evidence of an illness We visited many other doctors in an attempt to get some answers Unfortunately they werent able to find any evidence of an illness either After some time I was finally diagnosed with a bacterial infection called pseudomon

more than two thousand years Christian expansion and proselytizing was couched in terms of defending the faith Until recently in the United States much of that defense came in the form of reactions against the liberal influences channeled through big corporate media such as popular music Hollywood movies and network and cable television But the election of Ronald Reagan as a Hollywood President introduced Christian America to the tools of advertising and multimedia appeals to children and youth to win new believers to God s armies Christotainment examines how Christian fundamentalism has realigned its armies to combat threats against it by employing the forces it once considered its chief enemies the entertainment media including movies television music cartoons theme parks video games and books Invited contributors discuss the critical theoretical frameworks of top selling devices within Christian pop culture and the appeal to masses of American souls through the blessed marriage of corporatism and the quest for pleasure years there has been much talk of the presumed decline in religious participation in America. In addition from the 1960s on surveys that mark the influence of religion in American life have shown a mixed response. Many suggest that religion is losing influence in the culture as a whole, others indicate that while organized religion may be experiencing challenges, spirituality is on the upswing. At the same time, however, there have been signs that religious life in the U.S. is extraordinarily healthy. But religion in America has changed to be sure in a number of ways. And it has changed us and our culture in return. This timely set looks at the major forces that are changing the shape of religion in American life. With an influx of immigrants from Asia, Latin America, and other regions, the diversity of religion has grown to include Buddhism, Hinduism, Islam, and other faiths. Latin American and African American communities have experienced changes in the ways they practice their faith and in turn influence American culture in general. Women have entered the clergy in record numbers and the push for allowing women and gays to enter the clergy in religions that limit or prohibit their roles is on the increase. In addition, gay couples are leading the same-sex marriage movement, and other social issues such as abortion, stem cell research, end of life care, etc. are still being debated. Interest over how people actually live out their religion or spirituality has mushroomed in recent decades thanks in part to the information revolution and popular culture. What folks do when they gather together to worship and where they come together has changed dramatically with the advent of the Internet and the role of sports in American life. So much has changed and faith in America has become more important than ever as part of our culture, our way of life, and the way we relate to each other and the world around us. The essays found in these pages shed light on our understanding of these transformations and help us comprehend the enormous role of religion in our society and in our world. The Ladies'

Hot Topics for Couples Steve Chapman, Annie Chapman, 2010-03-01 Believing young love is great and real love improves with age, Steve and Annie Chapman offer proven insights for creating loving, lasting marriages. What sparked Hot Topics for Couples? Annie asked Steve if meat loaf, a staple, was okay for dinner. Steve replied, "I don't like it." Amazed, Annie asked why he'd never mentioned this. You never asked. So they decided to eliminate any areas of discomfort. Using their 35-year marriage discussions with couples and biblical wisdom, the Chapmans address wildfires such as he won't talk, she won't
