

33 EASTER DAY!

You breathe the pull toward me, as that my mother do not leave. Please, let it be!

On Easter Day we awoke to shafts of sunlight appearing through the clouds and warming our damp bodies. We were thankful that it hadn't rained again in the night as we hunted the wide Chiricahua river at night. The darkness through some trees in what we guessed to be the direction of human habitation. The first we would have seen for night dark!

Bedraggled and hunched, all of us very much lighter in weight than the previous month, we emerged from the bush and approached a small wooden house.

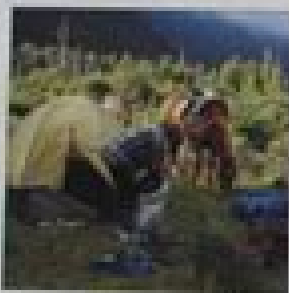

"Would you have a goldfish we could put our horses in?" Aki asked, as we approached ourselves to a young man called Sam and his friend, Aron, who passed over the shoulder on the doorway.

"We've been stuck in the rain and neither of us has seen horses here since for several days," I added.

"In my uncle's house in town at Kalamazoo but I'm sure it'll be fine to see the last goldfish," he shouted, with a hesitant look in his face. He consulted the horses and they all had a thorough and happy greeting. Their heads down for some serious eating. The last showing with a female youngster, which had never tasted so good!

That afternoon Sam caught a fish with Sam and Aron in Chiricahua, where he caught a giant fish to his back. He put in himself, remarking that the trip had strengthened his faith, and with a laugh added:

"But girls, don't even ask me to come on holiday with you again!"

began watching us for water.*
