Share In Death:

A Share in Death Deborah Crombie, 2003-08-26 A week's holiday in a luxurious Yorkshire time share is just what Scotland Yard's Superintendent Duncan Kincaid needs. But the discovery of a body floating in the whirlpool bath ends Kincaid's vacation before it's begun. One of his new acquaintances at Followdale House is dead; another is a killer. Despite a distinct lack of cooperation from the local constabulary, Kincaid's keen sense of duty won't allow him to ignore the heinous crime impelling him to send for his enthusiastic young assistant Sergeant Gemma James. But the stakes are raised dramatically when a second murder occurs and Kincaid and James find themselves in a determined hunt for a fiendish felon who enjoys homicide a bit too much.

A Share in Death Deborah Crombie, 1995 In this delightful new series Detective Superintendent Duncan Kincaid of Scotland Yard takes a holiday at his lovely Yorkshire time share. But before the stress of crime solving begins to disappear, a body washes up in the whirlpool bath. Kincaid won't be able to relax until the killer is sent packing.

Sociology of Death and the American Indian Gerry R. Cox, 2022-07-07 Sociology of Death and the American Indian examines dying, death disposal and bereavement practices and applies those concepts to select American Indian tribes historically and currently, supplemented with oral histories. The focus is that learning about other cultures can enhance the understanding of one's own culture by comparing traditional and modern societies. Gerry R. Cox addresses the centuries of injustices committed against American Indians that led to a neglect of learning about American Indian cultures and attempts to fill the gaps in knowledge of American Indian practices.

The Thought of Death and the Memory of War Marc Crépon, 2013-10-01 War lays bare death and our relation to it. And in the wars or more precisely the memories of war of the twentieth century, images of the deaths of countless faceless or nameless others eclipse the singularity of each victim's death as well as the end of the world as such that each death signifies. Marc Crépon's The Thought of Death and the Memory of War is a call to resist such images in which death is no longer actual death since it happens to anonymous others and to seek instead a world in which mourning the other whose mortality we always already share points us toward a cosmopolitics. Crépon pursues this path toward a cosmopolitics of mourning through readings of works by Freud, Heidegger, Sartre, Patocka, Levinas, Derrida, and Ricœur and others. The movement among these writers Crépon shows marks a way through and against twentieth-century interpretation to argue that no war, genocide, or neglect of people is possible without suspending how one relates to the death of another human being. A history of a critical strain in contemporary thought, this book is as Rodolphe Gasché says in the Foreword, a profound meditation on what constitutes evil and a rigorous and illuminating reflection on death, community, and world. The translation of this work received financial support from the French Ministry of Foreign
