The Oxford Handbook of Group and Organizational Learning Linda Argote, John M. Levine, 2020-01-02 Groups and organizations vary dramatically in their ability to learn Some acquire substantial knowledge as a function of experience while others do not In groups learning can occur at the level of the individual member and or the group as a whole In organizations learning can occur at both of these levels as well as that of the wider collective Besides varying in the amount and kind of information they acquire groups and organizations also vary regarding their success in retaining knowledge and transferring it to other units. In general, groups and organizations that are proficient in acquiring, retaining, and transferring knowledge are more productive and more enduring than their less able counterparts. The goal of this handbook is to bring together cutting edge theoretical and empirical work on group and organizational learning by leading scholars from several disciplines. Because many of the same processes influence learning in groups and organizations, including both kinds of learning in the same volume has the potential to facilitate the integration of knowledge and the cross fertilization of ideas. These benefits are reciprocal in that research at the group level can shed light on how organizations learn, whereas research at the organizational level can illuminate how groups learn. By clarifying similarities and differences in the processes that underlie learning in groups and organizations, the handbook advances understanding of the causes and consequences of learning in collectives of varying size and complexity.

Information Technology in the Service Economy: Michael Barrett, Elizabeth Davidson, Catherine Middleton, Janice I. DeGross, 2010-05-09. This book represents the compilation of papers presented at the IFIP Working Group 8.2 conference entitled Information Technology in the Service Economy: Challenges and Possibilities for the 21st Century. The conference took place at Ryerson University, Toronto, Canada, on August 10-13, 2008. Participation in the conference spanned the continents from Asia to Europe, with paper submissions global in focus as well. Conference submissions included completed research papers and research in progress reports. Papers submitted to the conference went through a double-blind review process in which the program co-chairs, an associate editor, and reviewers provided assessments and recommendations. The editorial efforts of the associate editors and reviewers in this process were outstanding. To foster high quality research publications in this field of study, authors of accepted papers were then invited to revise and resubmit their work. Through this rigorous review and revision process, 12 completed research papers and 11 research in progress reports were accepted for presentation and publication. Paper workshop sessions were also established to provide authors of emergent work an opportunity to receive feedback from the IFIP 8.2 community. Abstracts of these new projects are included in this volume. Four panels were presented at the conference to provide discussion forums for the varied aspects of IT service and globalization. Panel abstracts are also included here.

International Review of Industrial and Organizational Psychology 2010 Gerard P. Hodgkinson, J. Kevin Ford, 2010-02-04. This is the twenty-fifth volume in the most prestigious annual series for the field of industrial and organizational psychology. Continuing the tradition of providing scholarly up-to-the-minute reviews and updates of theory and research, this volume surveys developments in such familiar areas as employee selection, team cognition, and adaptation, leadership, and diversity management. Newer topics include corporate communications, coaching, and positive organizational behavior. Each chapter offers a comprehensive and critical survey of the topic and is supported by a valuable bibliography.

Collective Knowledge Patrick Figge, 2018-05-18. Collective knowledge and the associated concepts of collectively learning, remembering, and inventing are increasingly important in today's economy and society. Completing knowledge work alone is more and more difficult for individuals. Based on novel data sets which identify founders as inventors on patents and survey data collected from senior management, the author investigates questions about knowledge processing. What determines whether dispersed specialist knowledge can be located and used to complete tasks or to create new knowledge? How are social interactions organized and to what extent do individuals such as founders influence the course of action taken by the system as a whole.

Rethinking the Knowledge Controversy in

Organization Studies. Walter R. Nord, Ann F. Connell, 2012-03-29. Recently, the field of organization studies has been plagued by intense disruptive controversy about what counts as knowledge. This book, written by the major researchers and voices in the field of organization studies, attempts to respond to this controversy by offering the topic of generative uncertainty as the primary vehicle for rethinking about this issue. The authors prefer admitting uncertainty to making unwarranted assumptions. The ideas about questioning the possibility of knowledge that is certain go back to before the time of Socrates. This unique historical look at the study of organization studies will be of interest to all students and scholars of this field.

Communication and Organizational Knowledge. Heather E. Canary, Robert D. McPhee, 2010-07-02.
