A Shared Past For A Shared Future: European Muslims And History-Making Martin Rose,2009-01-01 In honor of the life and work of Sheikh Zaki Badawi OBE KBE and in recognition of his noted public contribution in championing the vital role of religious faith and values in the life of the nation the AMSS has established the annual Zaki Badawi Memorial Lecture The lecture series is dedicated to Dr Badawi s vision to foster pluralism inter faith dialogue inter cultural understanding and social cohesion He who controls the past controls the present In this third Zaki Badawi Memorial Lecture Martin Rose argues that history is as often a polemical weapon as a dispassionate exploration of the past It can at worst support entrenched positions and inhibit understanding but it also offers solutions to difficult questions of identity and belonging in today s Europe Seeing both Muslim and traditional European accounts of their own history as teleological and springing from their respective cultures he argues for a thoughtful and open minded approach to the writing of an intercultural history that explores much more fully the role of the Muslim East as a contributor to the modern European mind and at the same time acknowledges the shared inescapable and potentially creative legacy of common imperial histories for today's Europe

Examining the Past and Shaping the Future Katie Wright, Shurlee Swain, Kathleen McPhillips, 2021-11-29 The Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse 2013 17 was one of the largest public inquiries in Australian history and one of the most important investigations into child abuse internationally It facilitated a national conversation about justice for victims and survivors and how to improve child safety in the future Through the examination of practices in key social institutions including churches schools sporting clubs hospitals and voluntary organisations it provided new understandings of the widespread abuse that many people had experienced in the past and it made recommendations for a national redress scheme The Royal Commission also recommended sweeping reforms in policies practices and institutional cultures Offering valuable insights into the Royal Commission's history and background its social and cultural significance and its implications for policy development and legislative reform this book provides a wide ranging analysis of the work of the Royal Commission and its social psychological legal and discursive impact The chapters reveal not only the complexity of the matters that the Royal Commission was dealing with and the difficulties faced by the victims of child sexual abuse but also the challenges of researching and writing about this sensitive topic The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Australian Studies

Globalisation, Migration, and the Future of Europe Leila Simona Talani, 2012-02-06 Showcasing an original interdisciplinary approach this text examines the effect of migration on the domestic politics of individual states and how they are eroding the distinctions between the domestic and foreign policy the inside and outside components of politics and law During the twentieth century the context in which migrants negotiate their integration within legal social cultural economic and political spaces changed significantly Drawing upon varied perspectives from the US UK France Germany Switzerland Russia and Italy among others this work develops a comprehensive understanding of the impact migratory networks are having on European societies It investigates the strategies of integration or discrimination which are developed in Europe by state institutions legal codes political movements and even immigrant communities themselves when confronted with the growing influence of migratory networks The result is a highly topical exploration of the political and legal dimensions of migration in the EU that develops new approaches to the issue of social integration and the exclusion of migrants and migrant communities Globalization Migration and the Future of Europe will be of interest to students and scholars of migration European studies globalization and International Law
