Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee,2011-08-11 The Transport Committee reports that extensive cuts to rural evening and weekend bus services are damaging the ability of many people especially the old young or disabled to participate in employment education or voluntary work and to access vital services such as healthcare and retail facilities In a review of England's bus services outside London after the Spending Review the Committee warns that even deeper cuts in bus services are likely in 2012/13 as local authorities struggle to deal with budgetary reductions and calls for the concessionary travel scheme to be preserved so that the elderly and disabled continue to enjoy free bus travel The Committee also concludes that the concessionary fares scheme was discriminatory because it did not apply to most community transport providers usually independent charities that provide transport such as dial a ride bus services It calls on the Department for Transport to monitor the extent of service cutbacks made this year and to review service provision again after BSOG Bus Service Operator Grant grant cuts take effect in 2012/13 so that it can analyse and draw conclusions about the wider costs and benefits of its policy changes to the country as a whole The Local Government Association should identify and disseminate information about good and bad practice in the delivery of cost effective flexible services including community transport and or area based transport integration And local authorities and commercial operators must consult more widely where services are being changed Northfield Echoes Delavan Leonard Pierson,1894 Health Care in the Information Society David Ingram,2023-11-17 In this fascinating book David Ingram traces the history of information technology and health informatics from its pioneers in the middle of the twentieth century to its latest developments The book is distinctive in its broad scope and coverage and as the eyewitness account of an author who became the first UK professor appointed with the mission to bridge information technology with everyday medicine health and care In this role he has been a co founder and leader of two rapidly growing initiatives openEHR and OpenEyes which stem from international collaborations of universities health services and industries These open source and open platform technologies have struck a widely resonant chord worldwide through their focus on community interest endeavours and open access to their methods and outputs Set against the history of extremely costly burdensome and serially unsuccessful top down attempts of governments to tackle the domain the book argues for a greater focus on shared endeavours of this kind contributing towards a standardized care information utility that incorporates methods and resources evolved shared and sustained in the public domain As information technologies are now at the very core of health care shaping the relationship between medical services and communities professions organisations and industries this book is important reading for politicians health care academics administrators and providers and to anybody interested in the future of health services in the digital age
