Mitchener, 2021-07-28 On November 20 1943 the U S military invaded the Tarawa Atoll of the Gilbert Islands as part of the first American offensive in the Central Pacific region during World War II This invasion marked more than one first as it was also the introductory test of a doctrine developed during the interwar years to address problems inherent in situations in which amphibious assaults required support by naval gunfire rather than land based artillery In this detailed study Donald K Mitchener documents and analyzes the prewar development of this doctrine as well as its application and evolution between the years 1943 1945 The historical consensus is that the test at Tawara was successful and increased the efficiency with which U S forces were able to apply the doctrine in the Pacific theater for the remainder of the Second World War Mitchener challenges this view arguing that the reality was much more complex He reveals that strategic concerns often took precedence over the lessons learned in the initial engagement and that naval planners failure to stay up to date with the latest doctrinal developments and applications sometimes led them to ignore these lessons altogether U S Naval Gunfire Support in the Pacific War presents an important analysis that highlights the human cost of misinterpreting strategic and tactical realities      Who's who in the Pacific Southwest , 1913      Pacific Islands Guestworkers in Australia Kirstie Petrou, John Connell, 2022-12-01 This is the first book to examine the contemporary seasonal migration of Pacific islanders to Australia through the Seasonal Worker Programme SWP It reflects on this new age of guestwork from a broad social economic political and cultural perspective in both source countries and destinations In so doing it offers a critical perspective on different phases of managed labour migration from nineteenth century practices of blackbirding to the present day This book examines why and how guestworker policies and programmes have developed and the impact this has had in Australia and for the people villages and islands of the sending states It particularly focuses on Vanuatu the main source of labour and draws upon studies based in Australia Vanuatu and other Pacific Island countries The book therefore traces new patterns of migration with intriguing economic and social consequences that are restructuring parts of rural and regional Australia in response to labour demands from agriculture and evolving regional geopolitics
