Hole in Our Soul Martha Bayles, 1996-05-15 From Queen Latifa to Count Basie Madonna to Monk Hole in Our Soul The Loss of Beauty and Meaning in American Popular Music traces popular music back to its roots in jazz blues country and gospel through the rise in rock n roll and the emergence of heavy metal punk and rap Yet despite the vigor and balance of these musical origins Martha Bayles argues something has gone seriously wrong both with the sound of popular music and the sensibility it expresses Bayles defends the tough affirmative spirit of Afro American music against the strain of artistic modernism she calls perverse She describes how perverse modernism was grafted onto popular music in the late 1960s and argues that the result has been a cult of brutality and obscenity that is profoundly anti musical Unlike other recent critics of popular music Bayles does not blame the problem on commerce She argues that culture shapes the market and not the other way around Finding censorship of popular music both a practical and a constitutional impossibility Bayles insists that an informed shift in public tastes may be our only hope of reversing the current malignant mood

Film Criticism as Cultural Fantasy Andrew McGregor, 2010 This book presents an unprecedented analysis of the dynamics of cultural representation and interpretation in film criticism It examines how French critical reception of Australian cinema since the revival period of the 1970s has evolved as a narrative of perpetual discovery and how a clear parallel can be drawn between French critics reading of Australian film and their interpretation of an exotic Australian national identity In French critical writing on Australian cinema Australian identity is frequently defined in terms of extremes of cultural specificity and cultural anonymity On the one hand French critics construct a Euro centric orientalist fantasy of Australia as not only a European Antipodes but the antithesis of Europe At the same time French critics have tended to subordinate Australian cultural identity within the framework of a resented Anglo American filmic and cultural hegemony The book further explores this marginalisation by examining the influence of the French auteur paradigm particularly in reference to the work of Jane Campion as well as by discussing the increasingly problematic notion of national identity and indeed national cinemas within the universal framework of international film culture

Henriette Blanke-Belcher, 1909 Sentimental Journey Marvin E. Paymer, Don E. Post, 1999 Sentimental Journey is a cornucopia of 546 song portraits that tell the story of America's very own great music from its beginnings on Tin Pan Alley through its flourishing in step with the rise of the Broadway musical, radio recordings, the big bands, and the film musical. The book spans 25 years broken up into three decades entitled The Roaring Twenties, The Depression Years, and The War Years, each of which begins with a prologue giving a general description of the decade. Each year within the decades gives further historical background against which the individual songs were written, including the political, social, and artistic events. Within each year the songs are portrayed individually, telling what made the song special and gives its vital statistics along with composer, lyricist, publisher, and when, where, and by whom it was introduced. The twenty-six chapters of Sentimental Journey is finalized with a set of Appendices containing glossary, bibliography, index of composers and lyricists, and an index of songs. No matter from what generation the reader is part of, the music from this book is being constantly rediscovered and has become part of the American heritage.
