The Michigan Journal ,2005-12-06 When the Spirit Calls Edward J. Hedican,2023-03-30 In January 1832 in the most southern part of Ontario s James Bay an elderly Cree man by the name of Quapakay was told by the spirits of the shaking tent that in order to survive the winter he was required to spoil the post at Hannah Bay a Hudson s Bay Company goose hunting station Following the directions of the spirits Quapakay and his sons carried out this ill fated task resulting in the deaths of sixteen occupants of the Hannah Bay post Now known as the Hannah Bay Massacre the victims included fur trader William Corrigan the postmaster and his wife and seven other Indigenous people When the Spirit Calls explores the social cultural and historical context in which the Hannah Bay tragedy took place as gleaned from the Hudson Bay Company s archival records and elucidations by Cree oral traditions The research is the culmination of over forty years of investigation by Edward J Hedican in Indigenous communities from the mid 1970s to the present day In the book Hedican aims to uncover the circumstances behaviours and attitudes that led to the slaughter When the Spirit Calls sheds light on the racist attitudes held by the white settler population towards Indigenous people attitudes that were prevalent in our colonial past and that continue to this very day The Foundation Directory 2005 David G. Ethics David Groenfeldt,2013-10-01 This book introduces the idea that ethics are an intrinsic dimension of any water policy program or practice and that understanding what ethics are being acted out in water policies is fundamental to an understanding of water resource management Thus in controversies or conflicts over water resource allocation and use an examination of ethics can help clarify the positions of conflicting parties as preparation for constructive negotiations The author shows the benefits of exposing tacit values and motivations and subjecting these to explicit public scrutiny where the values themselves can be debated The aim of such a process is to create the proverbial level playing field where values favoring environmental sustainability are considered in relation to values favoring short term exploitation for quick economic stimulus the current problem or quick protection from water disasters through infrastructure which science suggests is not sustainable The book shows how new technologies such as drip irrigation or governance structures such as river basin organizations are neither good nor bad in their own right but can serve a range of interests which are guided by ethics A new ethic of coexistence and synergies with nature is possible but ultimately depends not on science law or finances but on the values we choose to adopt The book includes a wide range of case studies from countries including Australia India Philippines South Africa and USA These cover various contexts including water for agriculture urban domestic and industrial use the rights of indigenous people and river watershed and ecosystem management Sex and International Tribunals Chiseche Salome Mibenge, 2013-07-26 Before the twenty first century there was little legal precedent for the prosecution of sexual violence as a war crime Now international tribunals have the potential to help make sense of political violence against both men and women they have the power to uphold victims claims and to convict the leaders and choreographers of systematic atrocity However by privileging certain accounts of violence over others tribunals more often confirm outmoded gender norms consigning women to permanent rape victim status In Sex and International Tribunals Chiseche Salome Mibenge identifies the cultural assumptions behind the legal profession s claims to impartiality and universality Focusing on the postwar tribunals in Rwanda and Sierra Leone Mibenge mines the transcripts of local and supranational criminal trials and truth and reconciliation commissions in order to identify and closely examine legal definitions of forced marriage sexual enslavement and the conscription of children that overlook the gendered experiences of armed conflict beyond the mass rape of women and girls In many cases a single rape conviction constitutes sufficient proof that gender based violence has been mainstreamed into the prosecution of war crimes Drawing on anthropological research in African conflicts and feminist theory Mibenge challenges legal narratives that reinscribe essentialized notions of gender in the conduct and resolution of violent conflict and uncovers the suppressed testimonies of men and women who are unwilling or unable to recite the legal scripts that would elevate them to the status of victimhood recognized by an international and humanitarian audience At a moment when international intervention in conflicts is increasingly an option Sex and International Tribunals points the way to a more nuanced and just response from courts
