Military Power and Politics in Black Africa Simon Baynham,2021-05-11 First published in 1986 Military Power and Politics in Black Africa explores many themes that concerned military power and politics in sub Saharan Africa at the time of publication Adopting a thematic approach the book considers the nature of both intervention and disengagement and looks at the relationship between civilian and military institutions The final chapters put forward arguments for the importance of foreign intervention in the politics and civil military relations of African states An impartial history of the naval, military and political events in Europe from the commencement of the French revolution to the ... conclusion of a general peace Hewson Clarke,1815 The Military in the Early Modern World Markus Meumann,Andrea Pühringer,2020-12-14 When looking at the early modern period c 1500 c 1800 we often speak of the military or the army But what exactly do we mean when using these terms The forms and structures of the armed forces have not only changed between 1500 and 1800 but also varied throughout different regions of the world and even within Europe The contributors to this volume examine twelve early modern examples of armed forces in the Holy Roman Empire Western and Eastern Europe Eastern Asia and North America and paint a multifarious and even disparate picture during this period The findings suggest that modern notions of the armed forces common in the early modern period should be used more prudently to avoid prevalent implications of non existing continuity and uniformity

The Military In New Times James Burk,Robert J Waldman,David R Segal,Charles C Moskos,2019-06-26 What role will armed forces play in a world that is turbulent yet no longer organized by the bipolar conflict of East and West In this volume leading experts from several disciplines assess the rapidly changing global strategic and cultural landscape examining how it will affect the responsibilities and social standing of the modern military There are provocative disagreements among the contributors especially over whether we should expect and prepare for another global war However the contributors generally agree on several broad themes that guide their analysis Arguing that the Cold War has masked basic trends that have been reshaping the international system for a long time they suggest that the sovereign states dominance of the international system is rapidly coming to an end as multinational ethnic regional and religious groups to name a few increasingly affect the course of global affairs In the absence of a clear enemy the military faces an identity crisis In the postmodern atmosphere of this multicentric global order authority is fragmented and the exercise of any one authority is subject to greater scrutiny and challenge The military has become more accepting of a variety of values life styles and attitudes toward its tasks At the same time support for the military s mission is difficult to win requiring endless justification The authors believe that the principal missions for the military in these new times are peacekeeping peacemaking and humanitarian assistance They examine the prospects for successful operations in these areas taking into account the cultural lag between world structures that favor increased multinational peacekeeping forces and individual nations that supply token resources to support such efforts This volume provides a sophisticated and thought provoking perspective on the future role of the military in the coming decades It is sure to enrich the vigorous debate surrounding these issues
