Mind & Body Or, Mental States & Physical Conditions William Walker Atkinson, 2007-04-01 How much do our conscious and subconscious minds influence our bodily health and well being Followers of the New Thought movement an early New Age philosophy that was tremendously popular around the turn of the 20th century vehemently believed in the concept of mind over matter and in this 1910 work one of the most prominent New Thought voices explores the power of belief suggestion and the human imagination to avoid sickness and to conquer it when it afflicts us Part of Atkinson's New Psychology series which melded the scientific and the spiritual into a fresh metaphysical paradigm this is a provocative book and a must read for anyone interested in New Thought beliefs American writer WILLIAM WALKER ATKINSON 1862 1932 was editor of the popular magazine New Thought from 1901 to 1905 and editor of the journal Advanced Thought from 1916 to 1919 He authored dozens of New Thought books under numerous pseudonyms some of which are likely still unknown today including Yogi Ramacharaka and Theron Q Dumont

Mind and Body William Walker Atkinson, 2013-11-23 Does our conscious and subconscious mind influence our health The concept of mind over matter was influential when Mind and Body was published in 1910 and remains so a century later Can we cure ourselves through the power of belief and imagination Mind and Body is a thoughtful and practical guide for those interested in attaining mental and physical health and for those interested in American author William Walker Atkinson 1862 1932 and New Thought beliefs Mind and Body William Atkinson, 2017-11-06 Mind and Body Mental States and Physical Conditions To the mind of those who have contented themselves with merely the superficial aspects of things these two things mind and body and mental states and physical conditions seem to be as far apart as the two poles seem to be opposites and contradictories impossible of reconciliation But to those who have penetrated beneath the surface of things these two apparent opposites are seen to be so closely related and inter related so blended and mingled together in manifestation that it is practically impossible to scientifically determine where the one leaves off and the other begins And so constant and close is their mutual action and reaction that it often becomes impossible to state positively which is the cause and which the effect In the first place Science now informs us that in all living substance from cell to mammoth there is and must be Mind There can be no Life without Mind Mind indeed is held to be the very livingness of Life the greater the degree of manifestation of Mind the higher the degree of Life Moreover the New Psychology informs us that upon the activities of the Subconscious Mind depend all the processes of physical life that the Subconscious Mind is the essence of what was formerly called the Vital Force and is embodied in every cell cell group or organ of the body And that this Subconscious Mind is amenable to suggestion good and evil from the conscious mind of its owner as well as from outside When the subject of the influence of Mental States upon Physical Conditions is studied one sees that the Physical Condition is merely the reflection of the Mental State and the problem seems to be solved the mystery of Health and Disease solved But in this as in everything else there is seen to be an opposing phase the other side of the shield Let us look at the other side of the question Just as we find that wherever there is living substance there is Mind so do we find that we are unable to intelligently consider Mind unless as embodied in living substance The idea of Mind independent of its substantial embodiment becomes a mere abstraction impossible of mental imaging something like color independent of the colored substance or light without the illuminated substance And just as we find that Mental States influence Physical Conditions so do we find that Physical Conditions influence Mental States And so the problem of Life Health and Disease once more loses its simplicity and the mystery again deepens The deeper we dig into the subject the more do we become impressed with the idea of the universal principle of Action and Reaction so apparent in all phenomena The Mind acts upon the Body the Body reacts upon the Mind cause and effect become confused the reasoning becomes circular like a ring it has no beginning no end its beginning may be any place we may prefer its ending likewise

CONTENTS Foreword I The Subconscious Mind II The Sympathetic System III The Cell Minds IV The Mental Basis of Cure V The History of Psycho Therapy VI Faith Cures VII The Power of the Imagination VIII Belief and Suggestion IX Psycho Therapeutic Methods X The Reaction of the Physical

We have written this book to reach not only those who refuse to see the wonderful influence of the Mental States over the Physical Conditions but also for our metaphysical friends who have become so enamored with the power of the Mind that they practically ignore the existence of the Body indeed in some cases actually denying the existence of the latter We believe that there is a sane middle ground in metaphysical healing as there is in the material treatment of disease

MIND AND BODY OR MENTAL STATES AND PHYSICAL CONDITIONS. WILLIAM WALKER. ATKINSON,2024

Mind and Body - Mental States and Physical Conditions William Atkinson,2019-09-17 We have written this book to reach not only those who refuse to see the wonderful influence of the Mental States over the Physical Conditions but also for our metaphysical friends who have become so enamored with the power of the Mind that they practically ignore the existence of the Body indeed in some cases actually denying the existence of the latter We believe that there is a sane middle ground in metaphysical healing as there is in the material treatment of disease In this case not only does Truth lie between the two extremes but it is composed of the blending and assimilation of the two opposing ideas and theories But even if the reader does not fully agree with us in our general theories and conclusions he will find within the covers of this book a mass of facts which he may use in building up a new theory of his own And after all what are theories but the threads upon which are strung the beads of facts if our string does not meet with your approval break it and string the beads of fact upon a thread of your own Theories come and theories go but facts remain To the mind of those who have contented themselves with merely the superficial aspects of things these two things mind and body and mental states and physical conditions seem to be as far apart as the two poles seem to be opposites and contradictories impossible of reconciliation But to those who have penetrated beneath the surface of things these two apparent opposites are seen to be so closely related and inter related so blended and mingled together in manifestation that it is practically impossible to scientifically determine where the one leaves off and the other begins And so constant and close is their mutual action and reaction that it often becomes impossible to state positively which is the cause and which the effect When the subject of the influence of Mental States upon Physical Conditions is studied one sees that the Physical Condition is merely the reflection of the Mental State and the problem seems to be solved the mystery of Health and Disease solved But in this as in everything else there is seen to be an opposing phase the other side of the shield Let us look at the other side of the question Just as we find that wherever there is living substance there is Mind so do we find that we are unable to intelligently consider Mind unless as embodied in living substance The idea of Mind independent of its substantial embodiment becomes a mere abstraction impossible of mental imaging something like color independent of the colored substance or light without the illuminated substance And just as we find that Mental States influence Physical Conditions so do we find that Physical Conditions influence Mental States And so the problem of Life Health and Disease once more loses its simplicity and the mystery again deepens The deeper we dig into the subject the more do we become impressed with the idea of the universal principle of Action and Reaction so apparent in all phenomena The Mind acts upon the Body the Body reacts upon the Mind cause and effect become confused the reasoning becomes circular like a ring it has no beginning no end its beginning may be any place we may prefer its ending likewise The only reconciliation is to be found in the fundamental working hypothesis which holds that both Mind and Body both Mental States and Physical Conditions are the two aspects of something greater than either the opposing poles of the same Reality With the working hypothesis that Mind and Body are but varying aspects of the Truth that Mind is the inner essence of the Body and Body the outward manifestation of the Mind we find ourselves on safe ground Mind and Body William Walker
