R. Smythies, 2014-11-20

Presenting some modern views on the problem of the nature of mind and its relationship to the brain this book published in 1965 brings together contributors from various disciplines which are affected by this issue Coming from different philosophical outlooks as well as subjects these contributors also comment on each other s chapters with a view of developing thought on the approaches to the problem The theory of mind brain relationship is vital to human interest and has been in debate throughout western thought over centuries split mainly into dualist and monistic theories These discussions had and still have wide impact philosophy psychology religion and cosmology among other areas Rules of the Mind John R. Anderson, 2014-01-14

Related to the earlier well known ACT production system theory this book s basic goal is to present evidence for the psychological reality of a production system model of mind Distinguished from the original theory in three ways this volume uses the rational analyses of Anderson 1990 to improve upon that theory and extend its scope It also relates the theory to a great deal of new data on the performance and acquisition of cognitive skills The new theory ACT R involves a neurally plausible implementation of a production system architecture Rational analysis is used to structure and parameterize the system to yield optimal information processing The theory is applicable to a wide variety of research disciplines including memory problem solving and skill acquisition Using intelligent tutors much of the data is concerned with the acquisition of cognitive skills The book provides analyses of data sets describing the extended course of the acquisition of mathematical and computer programming skills Dialogue and Instruction Robbert-Jan Beun, Michael Baker, Miriam Reiner, 1995

Intelligent Computer-aided Instruction Educational Technology Magazine Staff,1991 Mind and Brain William R. Uttal,2011 The search for mind brain relationships with a particular emphasis on distinguishing hyperbole from solid empirical results in brain imaging studies Cognitive neuroscience explores the relationship between our minds and our brains most recently by drawing on brain imaging techniques to align neural mechanisms with psychological processes In Mind and Brain William Uttal offers a critical review of cognitive neuroscience examining both its history and modern developments in the field He pays particular attention to the role of brain imaging especially functional magnetic resonance imaging fMRI in studying the mind brain relationship He argues that despite the explosive growth of this new mode of research there has been more hyperbole than critical analysis of what experimental outcomes really mean With Mind and Brain Uttal attempts a synoptic synthesis of this substantial body of scientific literature Uttal considers psychological and behavioral concerns that can help guide the neuroscientific discussion work done before the advent of imaging systems and what brain imaging has brought to recent research Cognitive neuroscience Uttal argues is truly both cognitive and neuroscientific Both approaches are necessary and neither is sufficient to make sense of the greatest scientific issue of all how the brain makes the mind Text, Speech and Dialogue Petr Sojka,Aleš Horák,Ivan Kopeček,Karel Pala,2014-09-01 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 17th International Conference on Text Speech and Dialogue TSD 2013 held in Brno Czech Republic in September 2014 The 70 papers presented together with 3 invited papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 143 submissions They focus on topics such as corpora and language resources speech recognition tagging classification and parsing of text and speech speech and spoken language generation semantic processing of text and speech integrating applications of text and speech processing automatic dialogue systems as well as multimodal techniques and modelling The Human Tutorial Dialogue Project Barbara A. Fox,2020-11-26 This volume s goal is to begin to document the dialogue processes in naturally occurring human tutoring in the context of informing the design of intelligent tutoring systems and of interactive systems in general This project represents the first empirical study of human tutorial dialogue from a conversation analytic perspective the conversational interaction is the focus of analysis rather than larger scale techniques for teaching It is also the first study of tutoring to make use of large quantities of carefully transcribed tutoring conversations dialogues The motivation for this focus comes from two sources First although all tutoring systems have implicit theory or theories of minute level interaction built into them little research has been done to form an empirical foundation for such theories Therefore current systems tend to be based on the designers intuitions rather than on data This fact almost certainly makes systems unnecessarily brittle in actual use Second of the small but growing collection of empirical studies of tutoring almost all have been designed and carried out by computer scientists whose training naturally leads them to be concerned with interaction at the level of knowledge transfer and teaching techniques Fox s training as a linguist brings attention to the minute by minute details of the interaction in particular to the processes that bring the interaction into existence and allow it to develop relatively smoothly Beyond Experience Norman Swartz, 1991 Swartz
