Libicki, 1999-07 Warns of the growing disparity in combat capability between European and U S forces over the exploitation of the revolution in military affairs RMA The consequences of this transatlantic rift could undermine NATO This book dissects the problem of a growing disparity and rejects its inevitability Instead it lays out a multitiered strategy for its solution which is specific and practical including processes and procedures for implementation Chapters assessing the problem a shared strategic outlook building compatible forces for RMA operations creating a Transatlantic system of systems creating a Transatlantic RMA market Mind the Gap

Promoting a Transatlantic Revolution in Military Affairs ,1999 When American defense officials meet informally with their allies and friends from other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries the conversation often turns to the growing disparity in combat capability between European and U S forces The problem is bemoaned but the participants are not stirred to action This is unfortunate We need a cross Atlantic debate that seeks feasible solutions to this problem Mind the Gap responds directly to that need It not only dissects the problem of a growing disparity but also rejects its inevitability Instead it lays out a multitiered strategy for its solution which is specific and practical including processes and procedures for implementation The proposed strategy is complicated and would be difficult to execute it would raise questions and even objections That is as it should be The alliance nevertheless has solved larger more complex problems We urgently need to find a way to close the gap because the problem is getting worse The United States continues to implement its vision of a globally mobile military force equipped with the latest technology The European members of NATO are not investing in similar capabilities As a result the gap will widen and be increasingly difficult to close Mind the gap promoting a transatlantic revolution in military affairs ,1999 When American defense officials meet informally with their allies and friends from other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries the conversation often turns to the growing disparity in combat capability between European and U S forces The problem is bemoaned but the participants are not stirred to action This is unfortunate We need a cross Atlantic debate that seeks feasible solutions to this problem Mind the Gap responds directly to that need It not only dissects the problem of a growing disparity but also rejects its inevitability Instead it lays out a multitiered strategy for its solution which is specific and practical including processes and procedures for implementation The proposed strategy is complicated and would be difficult to execute it would raise questions and even objections That is as it should be The alliance nevertheless has solved larger more complex problems We urgently need to find a way to close the gap because the problem is getting worse The United States continues to implement its vision of a globally mobile military force equipped with the latest technology The European members of NATO are not investing in similar capabilities As a result the gap will widen and be increasingly difficult to close Mind the Gap David C. Gompert, Richard L. Kugler, Martin C. Libicki, 1999 By David C Gompert et al Addresses the problem of the growing disparity in combat capability between

European and United States forces Lays out a multi tiered strategy for its solution which is specific and practical including processes and procedures for implementation MIND THE GAP... PROMOTING A TRANSATLANTIC REVOLUTION IN MILITARY AFFAIRS... U.S. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE. National Defense University,1999* Revolution in Military Affairs Elinor C. Sloan,2002-04-18 Although the RMA has been the subject of much discussion in the United States for over a decade it has not received the same level of analytic attention in Canada and other NATO and allied countries Sloan examines the RMA in the context of Canada Australia France Germany and the United Kingdom in addition to assessing the transformation efforts of the United States Military She concludes that small and medium military powers such as Canada must at a minimum take selected concrete measures to maximize their military capabilities through the RMA if they are to avoid operational and political marginalisation in the promotion of international peace and security Contemporary Military Innovation Dima Adamsky,Kjell Inge Bjerga,2012 This book explores contemporary military innovation with a particular focus on the balance between anticipation and adaption The volume examines contemporary military thought and the doctrine that evolved around the thesis of a transformation in the character of war Known as the Information Technology Revolution in Military Affairs IT RMA this innovation served as an intellectual foundation for the US defence transformation from the 1990s onwards Since the mid 1990s professional ideas generated within the American defence milieu have been further disseminated to military communities across the globe with huge impact on the conduct of warfare With chapters written by leading scholars in this field this work sheds light on RMAs in general and the IT RMA in the US in particular The authors analyse how military practice and doctrines were developed on the basis of the IT RMA ideas how they were disseminated and the implications of them in several countries and conflicts around the world This book will be of much interest to students of strategic studies defence studies war and technology and security studies in general Policy Analysis in National Security Affairs Richard L. Kugler,2006 This book addresses how to conduct policy analysis in the field of national security including foreign policy and defense strategy It is a philosophical and conceptual book for helping people think deeply clearly and insightfully about complex policy issues This books reflects the viewpoint that the best policies normally come from efforts to synthesize competing camps by drawing upon the best of each of them and by combining them to forge a sensible whole While this book is written to be reader friendly it aspires to in depth scholarship Towards a Brave New Arms Industry? Richard Bitzinger,2014-08-27 In the post Cold War era most countries have been forced to radically reduce their arms industries and abandoned self sufficiency in favour of a subordinate role in an increasingly globalized worldwide defence industry This has significant implications for the future of armaments production for proliferation and for arms control Military Thought ,2011 The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Julian Lindley-French,2006-11-22 This book is an excellent introduction to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO Julian Lindley French clearly outlines all of the institution s key facets to deliver an authoritative account Detailing the origins institutions workings and activities of NATO this volume also focuses on its future as the institutional basis for the security dimension of the transatlantic relationship and an institution contributing to global security It is clear that NATO faces fresh challenges in the twenty first century and will be in the spotlight for years to come Visions of the Atlantic Alliance Simon Serfaty,2005-12-16

US Intervention Policy and Army Innovation Richard Lock-Pullan,2004-08-02 US Intervention Policy and Army Innovation examines how the US Army rebuilt itself after the Vietnam War and how this has affected US intervention policy from the victory of the Gulf War to the failure of Somalia the Bosnian and Kosovo interventions and the use of force post 9 11 Richard Lock Pullan analyzes the changes in US military intervention strategy by examining two separate issues the nature of the US Army as it rebuilt itself after the Vietnam War and the attempts by the US to establish criteria for future military interventions He first argues that US strategy traditionally relied upon national mobilization to coordinate political aims and military means he subsequently analyzes how this changed to a formula of establishing militarily achievable political objectives prior to the use of force Drawing on a vast body of material and on strategic culture and military innovation literature Lock Pullan demonstrates that the strategic lessons were a product of the rebuilding of the Army s identity as it became a professional all volunteer force and that the Army s new doctrine developed a new way of war for the nation embodied in the AirLand Battle doctrine which changed the approach to strategy This book finally gives a practical analysis of how the interventions in Panama and the Gulf War vindicated this approach and brought a revived confidence in the use of force while more recent campaigns in Somalia Kosovo and Bosnia exposed its weaknesses and the limiting nature of the Army s thinking The legacy of the Army s innovation is examined in the new strategic environment post 9 11 with the operations in Afghanistan and Iraq
