Modern Newspaper Editing Gene Gilmore, Robert Root, 1976 Subediting F. W. Hodgson, 1987 Modern Newspaper Design Edmund C. Arnold, 1969 Modern Newspaper Editing, 1971 Newspaper Editing - A Manual For Editors, Copyreaders And Students Of Newspaper Desk Work Grant Milnor Hyde, 2021-01-08

Much has happened in the newspaper profession and in the schools of journalism since this book was first published ten years ago. The newspapers have covered a World War and war periods have always brought the greatest changes in American newspapers. They have wrestled with doubled costs of production, reduced staffs, much merging, curtailed income, and are now deep in the perplexities of reconstruction. Meanwhile schools and courses in journalism have greatly increased in number, enrolment, and branches of instruction. When the book was presented in 1915 it was the first textbook entirely devoted to the problems and technique of newspaper desk work. It has therefore been widely used in classes in copyreading, headline writing, and make up, as well as in newspaper offices. Its contents have been put to a severe test and some have been found wanting. The author himself, in using it year after year in class, filled many page margins with suggestions for improvement. Hence in preparation for its tenth anniversary it is well that the book should receive a thorough overhauling to bring it up to date, to put in some things omitted before, to make it more usable and teachable. Its general structure has not been changed. Most of the alterations are in the chapters on copyreading, headline writing, make up, and type, but many additions have been made in other chapters. Class exercises have now been added to each chapter to present in brief much of the technique of teaching as it has developed in the larger schools. They are intended to be suggestive, not only to the teacher but to independent students and young newspaper workers. A bibliography has been added to suggest further reading. In the schools of journalism the methods of teaching copyreading have developed during the period since first publication, probably more than any other branch, and have been somewhat standardized.

Modern News Editing Mark D. Ludwig, Gene Gilmore, 2005-08-08

The last decade has seen significant shifts in the roles of editors in the newsroom. Pagination has moved page composition from the backshop into the newsroom, placing additional responsibilities on copy and design editors. Newsrooms have become more collaborative, with emphasis on cooperation between various departments and between copy editors and assigning editors. The biggest change is the growth of the Internet as a medium for news delivery. Most newspapers have accompanying Web sites where breaking news can be posted for audiences long before the next print edition goes to press. In a sense it is a return to the days when newspapers published multiple editions throughout the day; only now it is done online. In Modern News Editing, authors Ludwig and Gilmore have creatively reworked Gilmore's classic textbook to fully integrate editing for online publication and editing for print. Whether the medium is a print newspaper or an online news site, the function of editors remains the same: to guide a news story from its inception to its publication. The fundamentals are still necessary. Is it news? How should it be approached? How should it be presented? Does the grammar pass muster? Is style consistently followed? Do headlines and photo captions capture reader interests What are the needs and desires of the audience Have the responsibilities of the news media to promote a free and self governing society been met The Modern News Editing CD ROM is packed with exercises to practice the concepts taught Microsoft Word files feature editable sentences and stories containing problems with spelling grammar style and incorrect facts Also included are photographs in JPEG format for import into photo editing and or page layout programs to practice cropping and sizing and for use in page design Sample pages and page templates in Quark Xpress Adobe InDesign and Adobe PageMaker are presented for use in page design exercises Modern News Editing is the textbook of choice to train future editors whether they work for a print newsroom or an online publication
