Cardiovascular Genetics for Clinicians P.A.F.M. Doevendans, A.A.M. de Wilde, 2001-10-31 All physicians practicing medicine encounter patients suffering from cardiovascular disease This book has been outlined in such a way that vascular surgeons general internists neurologists and cardiologists should be able to use it The book covers the complete scope of cardiac diseases in addition to chapters on hypertension and atherosclerosis In many patients there is a family history of cerebrovascular accidents myocardial infarction or peripheral arterial disease Also in patients reporting

collaps palpitations and arrhythmias the family is crucial and can provide clues to a genetic cause of the disease This book is published to guide physicians in the process of determining whether a genetic component is likely to be present Furthermore information is provided what the possibilities and limitations of DNA diagnostic techniques are Finally the importance of newly identified categories of potential patients i e gene carriers without symptoms or any inducible sign of disease is highlighted For some patients a genetic diagnosis is essential to determine appropriate therapy and for counseling In some other diseases DNA diagnostic tools are available but the relevant for the patients may be less clear In other families the search for a disease causing gene is ongoing and the possibilities to find genes and to unravel the pathophysiology of the disease is limited by the lack of patients To give insight into the current state of genetic diagnostics the authors have classified the cardiovascular diseases

Doevendans,Robert S. Reneman,Marc van Bilsen,2013-04-17 Improving our insights into the genetic predisposition to cardiovascular disease is one of the most important challenges in our field in the next millennium not only to unravel the cause of disease but also to improve the selection of patients for particular treatments Nowadays for example subjects with a cholesterol above a particular plasma level are exposed to a cholesterol lowering regime based upon the beneficial outcome of epidemiological studies which include subjects not prone to the disease despite a plasma cholesterol above the accepted level Identification of the patients who are genetically predisposed to the consequences of this disorder will reduce the number of subjects unnecessarily treated and hence the costs of health care Because in most cardiovascular diseases the genetic component is a consequence of more than one gene defect only limited progress has as yet been made in identifying subjects genetically at risk For example in hypertension only in less than 10% of the patients the genetic defect has been identified It has been known for quite some time that in heart and blood vessels fetal genes are as high blood pressure and upregulated or induced when they are exposed to such disorders ischemia Little is known about the function of these genes in the cardiac and vascular adaptation to these disorders only guesses can be made
