On The Road To Change:

'Stony the Road' to Change Marilyn M. Thomas-Houston, 2005 This book is the result of an ethnographic study on the impact of Black cultural diversity on social action The ethnography has three important characteristics First it incorporates the multiple perspectives of the ethnographer with the diverse voices of the people through an unusual form of reflexivity that provides additional insight for the descriptions analyses and conclusions of the book This epistemological method is used to challenge traditional structures of ethnographies Secondly it argues for the consideration of non traditional approaches to studying the Black experience a focus away from race relations and issues of class and an emphasis on intragroup interaction and diversity Thirdly it investigates the processes social institutions and structures within the Black community of a small college town that influence social change and social action since the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960s The Long Road to Change Eric Nellis, 2019-02-06 Breaking from traditional historical interpretations of the period Eric Nellis takes a long view of the origins and consequences of the Revolution and asserts that the Revolution was not as others have argued generated by a well developed desire for independence but rather by a series of shifts in British imperial policies after 1750 Nellis argues that the Revolution was still being shaped as late as 1820 and that many racial territorial economic and constitutional issues were submerged in the growth of the republic and the enthusiasm of the population In addressing the nature of the Revolution Nellis suggests that the American Revolution and American political systems and principles are unique and much less suited for export than many Americans believe Acts and Joint Resolutions, Amending the Constitution, of the General Assembly of the State of Virginia Virginia, 1908 Includes separately published extra sessions

Complexity Perspectives in Innovation and Social Change David Lane, Denise Pumain, Sander Ernst van der Leeuw, Geoffrey West, 2009-02-13 Innovation is nowadays a question of life and death for many of the economies of the western world Yet due to our generally reductionist scientific paradigm invention and innovation are rarely studied scientifically Most work prefers to study its context and its consequences As a result we are as a society lacking the scientific tools to understand improve or otherwise impact on the processes of invention and innovation This book delves deeply into that topic taking the position that the complex systems approach with its emphasis on emergence is better suited than our traditional approach to the phenomenon In a collection of very coherent papers which are the result of an EU funded four year international research team's effort it addresses various aspects of the topic from different disciplinary angles One of the main emphases is the need in the social sciences to move away from neo darwinist population thinking to organization thinking if we want to understand social evolution Another main emphasis is on developing a generative approach to invention and innovation looking in detail at the contexts within which invention and innovation occur and how these contexts impact on the chances for success or failure Throughout the book is infused with interesting new insights but also presents several well elaborated case studies that connect the ideas with a substantive body of real world information

Migration, Agrarian Transition, and Rural Change in Southeast Asia Philip F. Kelly,2013-10-18 Rural life in Southeast Asia is being transformed by new and intensifying processes of migration and mobility Migration out of rural areas creates new forms of class mobility familial relations production processes and income Migration into rural areas creates a new and sometimes marginalized workforce contestation over resource access and the juxtaposition of culturally different groups At the same time everyday mobility stretches the spatial boundaries of village and family life The bounded space of the village is no longer adequate to understand the dynamics that are driving and resulting from rural social change This collection of original studies explores the cultural economic and environmental dimensions of intensifying migration and mobility in rural Southeast Asia at multiple scales Diverse processes are explored including rural urban flows rural rural movement everyday mobilities and international migrations into regional and global labour markets Drawing on fieldwork in six countries across the region these essays also explore what migration means for our understanding of class citizenship gender and the state in a rapidly changing part of the world This book was based on two parts of a special issue of Critical Asian Studies
