Mathematics Today Twelve Informal Essays L.A. Steen, 2012-12-06 The objective of the present book of essays is to convey to the intelligent nonmathematician something of the nature development and use of mathematical concepts particularly those that have found application in current scientific research. The idea of assembling such a volume goes back at least to 1974 when it was discussed by the then newly formed Joint Projects Committee for Mathematics JPCM of the American Mathematical Society the Mathematical Association of America and the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics. Currently the nine members of the JPCM are Saunders Mac Lane Chairman of the University of Chicago Frederick J. Almgren Jr of Princeton University Richard D. Anderson of Louisiana State University George E. Carrier of Harvard University Hirsh G. Cohen of the International Business Machines Corporation Richard C. DiPrima of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Robion C. Kirby of the University of California at Berkeley William H. Kruskal of the University of Chicago and George D. Mostow of Yale University. The JPCM decided to make production of this volume its first major project and requested the Conference Board of the Mathematical Sciences CBMS of which its three sponsoring societies are all member organizations to approach the National Science Foundation on its behalf for support of the undertaking. A proposal submitted by the CBMS in December 1974 and in revised form in July 1975 was granted by the Foundation in May 1976 and work on assembling the volume got under way.

Mechanizing Proof Donald MacKenzie, 2004-01-30 Most aspects of our private and social lives our safety the integrity of the financial system the functioning of utilities and other services and national security now depend on computing. But how can we know that this computing is trustworthy? In Mechanizing Proof

Donald MacKenzie addresses this key issue by investigating the interrelations of computing risk and mathematical proof over the last half century from the perspectives of history and sociology His discussion draws on the technical literature of computer science and artificial intelligence and on extensive interviews with participants MacKenzie argues that our culture now contains two ideals of proof proof as traditionally conducted by human mathematicians and formal mechanized proof He describes the systems constructed by those committed to the latter ideal and the many questions those systems raise about the nature of proof He looks at the primary social influence on the development of automated proof the need to predict the behavior of the computer systems upon which human life and security depend and explores the involvement of powerful organizations such as the National Security Agency He concludes that in mechanizing proof and in pursuing dependable computer systems we do not obviate the need for trust in our collective human judgment McFarlane's Perfect Bride
