Shared Lives:

Shared Lives Roy McConkey, John Dunne, Nick Blitz, 2009-01-01 Written by three authors who combine a wealth of expertise as researchers clinicians and practitioners this challenging book presents a renewed vision for the support of people with intellectual disabilities Its primary focus is the positive contributions that people with an intellectual disability can make to the lives of others and to their wider communities if given the opportunity Many real life examples are given Central to this is the nurturing of mutual relationships between people and their supporters be they paid workers community volunteers or family members Also explored is how people can come together in supportive communities that enrich and extend their experiences of life The building of alliances and the creation of partnership working across different organisations are essential to this The emphasis is on the role of the paid supporter which is still critical in the lives of many people but smaller community based networks of support with a shared vision of inclusive societies are seen to be the hallmark of modern service systems This book is refreshingly different and has a remarkable feel good quality It is essential reading for those striving to build person centred services the Global North to explore how human life in modernity has been and is shaped by the sentience autonomy and physicality of various animals particularly in landscapes where communities and wild animals exist in close proximity It offers a timely contribution to animal studies environmental geography environmental history and social science and humanities studies of the environment more broadly Foreign Echoes: Exploring New Worlds and Shared Lives Pasquale De

Global Aging and Its Challenge to Families Vern L. Bengtson, Ariela Lowenstein, The recent explosion in population aging across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history There is much concern about population aging and its consequences for nations for governments and for individuals It has often been noted that population aging will inevitably affect the economic stability of most countries and the policies of most state governments What is less obvious but equally important is that population aging will profoundly affect families Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrow s very old members of societies Will it be state governments The aged themselves Their families The purpose of this volume is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future Four remarkable social changes during the past fifty years are highlighted

- 1 Extension of the life course A generation has been added to the average span of life over the past century
- 2 Changes in the age structures of nations Most nations today have many more elders and many fewer children than fifty years ago
- 3 Changes in family structures and relationships Some of these differences are the result of trends in family structure notably higher divorce rates and the higher incidence of childbearing to single parents
- 4 Changes in governmental responsibilities In the last decade governmental responsibility appears to have slowed or reversed as states reduce welfare expenditures How will families respond to twenty first century problems associated with population aging Will families indeed be important in the twenty first century or will kinship and the obligations across generations become increasingly irrelevant replaced by personal communities This volume goes a considerable distance to answer these critical issues for the twenty first century

Vern L Bengtson is an AARP University Chair in Gerontology and Professor of Sociology University of Southern California Ariela Lowenstein is associate professor and head Department of Aging Studies University of Haifa Israel

The Five Health Frontiers Christopher Thomas, 2022-01-20 A brilliant expos Danny Dorling Covid 19 has exposed the limits of a neoliberal public health orthodoxy But instead of imagining radical change the left is stuck in a rearguard action focused on defending the NHS from the wrecking ball of privatisation Public health expert Christopher Thomas argues that we must emerge from Covid 19 on the offensive with a bold new vision for our health and care He maps out five new frontiers for public health and imagines how we can move beyond safeguarding what we have to a radical expansion of the principles put forward by Aneurin Bevan the founder of the NHS over 70 years ago Beyond recalibrating our approach to healthcare services his blueprint includes a fundamental redesign of our economy through Public Health Net Zero a bold new universal public health service fit to address the real causes of ill health and a major recalibration in the efforts against the epidemiological reality of an era of pandemics
