Entanglements of Life with the Law John R. Campbell, 2020-11-09 This book examines the quality and nature of justice dispensed in London's magistrates courts which are the lowest level of the United Kingdom's Criminal Justice System In 2016 approximately 230 000 individuals were prosecuted for a criminal offence in these courts of whom about seventy percent pleaded guilty and were sentenced Curiously about eighty five percent of those who pleaded not guilty were subsequently tried found guilty and sentenced This book addresses a central paradox of criminal justice how is it that magistrates are able to reach a guilty verdict despite the elusive and complex nature of truth and reality Research together with observations of 238 remand hearings and 23 trials has led the author to arrive at some uncomfortable conclusions about a legal system undermined by government austerity policies and lacking in transparency This book shows that the police fail to investigate most offences that the Crown Prosecution Service is reliant on the cases which the police want prosecuted that the quality of legal representation is poor that magistrates decisions may be unjust and that most defendants are not able to understand or participate in their hearing Strikingly a large percentage of defendants are from London's precariat They are young men who are destitute or who rely on unstable incomes they are semi literate from Black and Ethnic Minority Communities and their basic rights as citizens are being eroded Because many are repeat offenders they are recycled through the Criminal Justice System with limited assistance to address the problems which cause offending Magistrates courts dispense summary justice in very short hearings which means that defendants have a limited opportunity to defend themselves In short summary justice lacks basic due process rights in a legal process which bears a striking resemblance to justice in authoritarian non democratic societies consolidate into a single act the offences used to prosecute slave drivers It will also introduce Trafficking Prevention Orders to restrict the activity and movement of convicted traffickers and stop them from committing further offences and a new Anti Slavery Commissioner to hold law enforcement and other organisations to account The offence of slave driving will carry a maximum sentence of life imprisonment with those who already have a conviction for a very serious sexual or violent offence facing an automatic life sentence

Dramas from Network Television to Netflix Sunka Simon, 2022-12-15 German Crime Dramas from Network Television to Netflix approaches German television crime dramas to uncover the intersections between the genre's media-specific network and post-network formats and how these negotiate with and contribute to concepts of the regional, national and global. Part I concentrates on the ARD network's long-running flagship series Tatort. Crime Scene 1970: Because the domestically produced crime drama succeeded in interacting with and competing against dominant U.S. formats during 3 different mediascapes, it offers strategic lessons for post-network television. Situating 9 Tatort episodes in their televisual moment within the Sunday evening flow over 38 years and 3 different German regions reveals how producers, writers, directors, critics and audiences interacted not only with the cultural socio-political context but also responded to the challenges aesthetically, narratively and media reflexively. Part II explores how post-2017 German crime dramas Babylon Berlin, Dark, Perfume and Dogs of Berlin rework the genre's formal and narrative conventions for global circulation on Netflix. Each chapter concentrates on the dynamic interplay between time-shifted viewing, transmedia storytelling, genre hybridity and how these interact with projections of cultural specificity and continue or depart from established network practices. The results offer crucial information and inspiration for producers and executives, for creative teams, program directors and television scholars.
