Bartley, 2014-10-03 This study the first of its kind in English examines Russian responses to the independence movement in Latin America during the early nineteenth century. From a strictly presentist perspective the investigation of this subject contributes to the historiography of colonialism and of Latin America's relations with the major world powers. In addition it rounds out the story of foreign interests in the emancipation of Spanish and Portuguese America while at the same time shedding new light on the history of Russian overseas expansion. The study probes the major determinants of Russian responses to the struggle for independence of colonial Latin America and evaluates from a European perspective the actual impact of tsarist policy on the course of those historic events. Drawing on a wide range of printed materials and on hitherto unused manuscript sources from the archives and libraries of Spain, Portugal, Brazil and the USSR it isolates Russian New World objectives during the first decades of the nineteenth century and relates those objectives to the formulation of tsarist policy toward the insurgent Iberian colonies.

People of the Northern Seas Lewis R. Fischer, Walter Minchinton, 2017-10-18 This volume aims to continue the expansion of maritime history beyond the narrow definition of the study of ships to include all people involved in seagoing activities. The volume consists of eleven articles exploring the people of Northern seas spanning the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries and primarily focused on Europe. They were originally presented at a 1992 Finland conference of the Association for the History of the Northern Seas. The articles are broad in scope and are collected here with the intention of stimulating further academic research into the lives and histories of the people of the Northern seas which the editors at the time of publication consider under-examined. The articles are divided into three sections: the first examining livelihoods dependant on the ocean: seamen, fishermen. The second group examines maritime mercantile communities: merchants, shipowners, shipbrokers. The final group examines maritime culture encompassing the navy and the coastguard. Harold Innis and the North William J. Buxton, 2013-06-01 Harold Innis is widely understood as the proponent of the Laurentian school of historiography which mapped Canadian development along an East-West axis. Harold Innis and the North turns the axis North-South by examining Innis's intense and abiding interest in the North and providing new perspectives on this seminal figure in Canadian political economy and communication studies. This collection reveals that Innis's advocacy of the North was closely bound up with his vision of northern Canada as the site of a second industrial revolution based on mining, hydro-electric power, pulp and paper and enabled by new forms of transportation. Long preoccupied with Canada's coming of age as a balanced and integrated industrial nation-state, Innis grappled with the same issues about the North in the Canadian nation that we are dealing with today. Chapters explore the breadth of Innis's northern activities including his early studies of the fur trade, his biography of eighteenth-century explorer and cartographer Peter Pond, his review essays on the North for the Canadian Historical Review, his leadership of the Rockefeller-sponsored Arctic Survey and his trip to the Soviet Union. Harold Innis and the North crafts a new narrative about the nature and scope of Innis's intellectual project and provides a unique appreciation of his multi-faceted professional identity.
