Pictures in print, being recollections in rhyme and pencillings in prose John Gibson (of Kilmarnock.), 1851 Henry James: The Young Master Sheldon M.

Novick, 2011-07-27 As if Henry James himself were guiding us, we visit old Calvinist New York in the mid-nineteenth century and share the coming of age of a young man whose boldness of spirit and profound capacity for affection attract both men and women to him. We journey with James through Italy and France, witness his first love affair in Paris, and settle with him in London at the height of Empire in the Victorian Age. We scale the heights of London society with him, and as the world opens to James, we share with him the experience of writing a series of celebrated and successful novels culminating with Washington Square, on which the play The Heiress is based, and his masterpiece The Portrait of a Lady. The Washington Post Book World notes: "It is no small ambition to write a biography of James that is commensurate with that master, and Sheldon Novick has done it splendidly. Written as if Novick had aimed to bring James back to life, and he has succeeded brilliantly." The Washington Post Book World: "Like a movie of James's life as it unfolds moment to moment." The New York Times: "Masterful in bringing James and his world to life." The San Francisco Examiner Chronicle: "Beautifully written with a grace that enables Sheldon Novick to weave his subject's words in and out of his own with a properly Jamesian suavity." Novick's account gives one a profound respect for James's persistence and power of will. The New Republic: NOTE: This edition does not include a photo insert. The Egerton Genesis Mary Coker Joslin, Carolyn Coker Joslin Watson, British Library, 2001-01-01 The Egerton Genesis is a pictorial narrative of the biblical Genesis supplemented by legendary material. It was commissioned in the fourteenth century for the entertainment of a middle-class patron and his friends.

Spectacular Disappearances Julia H. Fawcett, 2016-03-04 How can people in the spotlight control their self-representations when the whole world seems to be watching? The question is familiar but not new. Julia Fawcett examines the stages, pages, and streets of eighteenth-century London as England's first modern celebrities performed their own strange and spectacular self-representations. They include the enormous wig that actor Colley Cibber donned in his comic role as Lord Foppington and that later reappeared on the head of Cibber's cross-dressing daughter, Charlotte Charke. They include the black page of Tristram Shandy, a memorial to the parson Yorick, and author Laurence Sterne's page so full of ink that it cannot be read. And they include the puffs and prologues that David Garrick used to heighten his publicity while protecting his privacy, the epistolary autobiography modeled on the sentimental novel of Garrick's protégée George Anne Bellamy and the elliptical poems and portraits of the poet actress and royal courtesan Mary Robinson aka Perdita Linking all of these representations is a quality that Fawcett terms over expression the unique quality that allows celebrities to meet their spectators demands for disclosure without giving themselves away Like a spotlight so brilliant it is blinding these exaggerated but illegible self representations suggest a new way of understanding some of the key aspects of celebrity culture both in the eighteenth century and today They also challenge divides between theatrical character and novelistic character in eighteenth century studies or between performance studies and literary studies today The book provides an indispensable history for scholars and students in celebrity studies performance studies and autobiography and for anyone curious about the origins of the eighteenth century self
