People On The Move United States History:

Communication Consultants in Political Campaigns Robert V. Friedenberg, 1997-10-28 We will never know the precise identity of America's first political consultant. It is likely that candidates were seeking favorable coverage in colonial newspapers as early as 1704; it is also likely that by 1745 candidates were using handbills and pamphlets to augment press coverage of campaigns and we know that one successful candidate George Washington in 1758 purchased refreshments for potential voters. These traditional approaches to winning votes have in recent years been amplified by consultants who have shown how cable networks, videocassettes, modems, faxes, focus groups, and other means of communication can be put to partisan use. In this book Robert V. Friedenberg examines all of the communication techniques used in contemporary political campaigning. After providing a history of political consulting, Friedenberg examines the principal communication specialities used in contemporary campaigns. Throughout, political consultants discuss their approaches and evaluate the benefits and shortcomings of these methods. An invaluable text for what is arguably the most rapidly changing field of applied communication, this work is a must reading for students and researchers of American politics, applied communication, and contemporary political theory. History of the USA Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2024-03-30 EduGorilla Publication is a trusted name in the education sector committed to empowering learners with high quality study materials and resources. It contains the Constitutional Amendments along with the Gettysburg Address of Abraham Lincoln, a time of confrontation and emancipation, the I Have A Dream speech by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a time of contention and determination, and the Inaugural Address of Barack Obama, a time of innovation and transformation. This nonfiction tradebook is an invaluable source of information for students, history teachers, and other readers. This comprehensive and highly accessible overview of Christian history in the United States from colonial times to the present is informed by both classical and recent scholarship and is written for the nonspecialist. Rodriguez, 2004 An in-depth look at trends in North American internal migration. This volume gathers established and new scholars working on North American immigration transmigration internal migration and citizenship whose work analyzes the development of migrant and state level institutions as well as migrant networks With contemporary migration research most often focused on the development of transnational communities and the ways international migrants maintain relationships with their sending region that sustain the circularflow of people ideas and traditions across national boundaries it is useful to compare these to similar patterns evident within the terrain of internal migration To date however international and internal migration studies have unfolded in relative isolation from one another with each operating within these distinct fields of expertise rather than across them Although there has been some important linking there has not been a recent major consideration of human migration that works across and within the various borders of the North American continent Thus the volume presents a variety of chapters that seek to consider human migration in comparative perspective across the internal international divide Marc S Rodriguez is Assistant Professor of History at Princeton University Donna R Gabbaccia is the Mellon Professor of History at the University of Pittsburgh James R Grossman is the Vice President of Research and Education at the Newberry Library Chicago Contributors Josef Barton Wallace Best Donna Gabbaccia James Gregory Tobias Higbie Mae Ngai Walter Nugent Annelise Orleck Kunal Parker Kimberly Phillips Bruno Ramirez Marc Rodriguez Repositioning North American Migration History is a volume in Studies in Comparative History sponsored by Princeton University s Shelby Cullom Davis Center for Historical Studies United States History Jerome McDuffie, Gary Piggrem, Steven E.
