Johnson Lutjens, 1991-09-16 This volume provides an easily understood presentation of Roy s Adaptation Model of nursing theory which views the person as a biopsychosocial being in constant interaction with the changing environment Roy believes nursing is needed when unusual stressors or weakened coping mechanisms make the person s usual attempts to cope ineffective The goal of nursing is thus to promote the adaptation of the patient leading to a higher level of wellness Roy s model has been a guiding influence on numerous critical care research studies Essentials of the Roy Adaptation Model Heather A. build middle range theories how to classify evidence for practice by levels of readiness and recommend research based changes in practice The text includes quantitative and qualitative research designs and offers instruments to measure major concepts for implementation Also included are plentiful examples tables that display values across studies definitions of major terms and concepts and diagrams of concepts Supplementing the text is a faculty guide for using the text to teach critical thinking at multiple graduate levels and videos illuminating each section of the book Key Features Explains clearly how middle range theories grow from research Designed for implementation in practice Uses Roy's five core adaptation contexts as organizing themes coping changing life events loss chronic health condition and traumatic events Constitutes a seminal work from a pre eminent nursing theorist and educator Includes faculty guide and videos elucidating each section of the book
