The Only Mind Worth Having Fiona Gardner, 2015-11-06 In The Only Mind Worth Having Fiona Gardner takes Thomas Merton s belief that the child mind is the only mind worth having and explores it in the context of Jesus challenging paradoxical and enigmatic command to become like small children She demonstrates how Merton's belief and Jesus's command can be understood as part of contemporary spirituality and spiritual practice To follow Christ's command requires a great leap of the imagination Gardner examines what it might mean to make this leap when one is an adult without it becoming sentimental and mawkish or regressive and pathological Using both psychological and spiritual insights and drawing on the experiences of Thomas Merton and others Gardner suggests that in some mysterious and paradoxical way recovering a sense of childhood spirituality is the path toward spiritual maturity The move from childhood spirituality to adulthood and on to a spiritual maturity through the child mind is a move from innocence to experience to organized innocence or from dependence to independence to a state of being in dependence with God

Seeing Through God John Llewelyn, 2004
Playing on the various meanings of Seeing Through God John Llewelyn explores the act of looking in the wake of the death of the transcendent God of metaphysics Taking up strategies developed by the Western sciences for seeing and observing he finds that the so called tough minded practices of the physical sciences are very much at home with the so called tender minded practices of Eastern religions Instead of opposing East and West Llewelyn thinks that blending these spheres leads to a better understanding of aesthetic experience and imagination In this blending he presents a phenomenological description of the imagination and the ethical and religious dimensions of the act of imagining Seeing Through God touches on themes of salvation the preservation of the environment and the role of God in our temptation to dishonor the earth This unique book presents Llewelyn as one of the leading interpreters of the environmental phenomenology movement
