Postcards Of Hitlers Germany Vol 1:

Postcards to Hitler Bruce Neuburger, 2024-04-09 An intimate history of the Holocaust drawn from the final days of a Jewish family in Munich Postcards to Hitler tells the story of a Jewish family in Munich living as close neighbors to the demagogue who becomes the Nazi Führer Adolf Hitler In a story passionately told by one of their descendants the narrative begins as Benno Neuburger a modest German land investor from Munich and Anna Einstein daughter of a cattle dealer meet at a seder in Laupheim and soon marry The year is 1907 a relatively prosperous optimistic time for German Jews and there is little hint that this good fortune might soon unravel Of all the Jews in Europe Germans like the Neuburgers feel most secure When on a warm July day in 1914 an assassination strikes an obscure Balkan corner of the continent the news passes through Munich's beer gardens like a cold wind Far from a fleeting chill what follows is the time of prolonged bloodshed known as World War I followed by a period of German humiliation resurgent revolution and a brief left led democratic interlude in Munich What might have been a site of socialist experimentation instead becomes the epicenter of German fascism and as Benno and Anna and their extended families cling with vain hope to a peaceful resolution their beloved haven degenerates into a state of racialized madness A bloody pogrom is chased by a second world war followed by evictions resettlements and far worse sounding an inescapable knell despite desperate and defiant acts of resistance Postcards to Hitler is a deeply researched history drawn from personal interviews and archival documents including Benno's and Anna's final letters written amid a slow moving parade of horror until the frail boundaries between themselves and the Holocaust ultimately vanish

Translating Holocaust Literature Peter Arnds, 2015-11-18 In his testimony on his survival in Auschwitz Primo Levi said our language lacks words to express this offense the demolition of a man If language if any language lacks the words to express the experience of the concentration camps how does one write the unspeakable How can it then be translated The limits of representation and translation seem to be closely linked when it comes to writing about the Holocaust whether as fiction memoir testimony a phenomenon the current study examines While there is a spate of literature about the impossibility to represent the Holocaust not much has been written on the links between translation in its specific linguistic sense translation studies and the Holocaust a niche this volume aims to fill
