Who Has Seen The Wind?
By Christina Rossetti

Who has seen the wind?
Neither I nor you,
But when the leaves hang trembling,
The wind is passing through.
Who has seen the wind?
Neither you nor I,
But when the trees bow down their heads,
The wind is passing by.

locates Hopkins and his work within the vital aesthetic and religious cultures of his youth It introduces some of the most powerful cultural influences on his poetry as well as some of the most influential poets from the well known fellow convert John Henry Newman to the almost forgotten historian and poet Richard Dixon From within the context of Hopkins developing catholic sensibilities it assesses the impact of and his responses to issues of the time which related to his own religious and aesthetic perceptions and provides a rich and intricate background against which to view both his early often neglected poetry and the justly famous idiosyncratic and deeply moving verse of his mature years By detailing the influences Tractarian poetry had upon Hopkins early work and applying these to the productions of his later years Gerard Manley Hopkins and Tractarian Poetry demonstrates how Hopkins best known mature works evolved from his upbringing in the Church of England and remained always indebted to this early culture It offers readings of his works in light of a new appraisal of the contexts from which Hopkins himself grew providing a fresh approach to this most challenging and rewarding of poets

Runes and Roman Letters in Anglo-Saxon Manuscripts Victoria Symons,2016-10-24 This book presents the first comprehensive study of Anglo Saxon manuscript texts containing runic letters To date there has been no comprehensive study of these works in a single volume although the need for such an examination has long been recognized This is in spite of a growing academic interest in the mise en page of early medieval manuscripts The texts discussed in this study include Old English riddles and elegies the Cynewulfian poems charms Solomon and Saturn I and the Old English Rune Poem The focus of the discussion is on the literary analysis of these texts in their palaeographic and runological contexts Anglo Saxon authors and scribes did not of course operate within a vacuum and so these primary texts are considered alongside relevant epigraphic inscriptions physical objects and historical documents Victoria Symons argues that all of these runic works are in various ways thematically focused on acts of writing visual communication and the nature of the written word The conclusion that emerges over the course of the book is that when encountered in the context of Anglo Saxon manuscripts runic letters consistently represent the written word in a way that Roman letters do not A Tropical Tramp with the Tourists Harry
