Rhetoric Of Argument:

A Rhetoric of Argument Jeanne Fahnestock, Marie Secor, 2004 The stasis approach pioneered by Fahnestock and Secor distinguishes among four basic questions that arguments are written to answer What is it Definition arguments How did it get that way Causal arguments Is it good or bad Evaluation arguments What should we do about it Proposal arguments These four questions now standard in many argument texts give students a constructive engaging way to analyze arguments by other writers and to construct their own arguments GoogleBooks

Rhetorical Argumentation Christopher W. Tindale, 2004-05-27 The study of argumentation has primarily focused on logical and dialectical approaches with minimal attention given to the rhetorical facets of argument Rhetorical Argumentation Principles of Theory and Practice approaches argumentation from a rhetorical point of view and demonstrates how logical and dialectical considerations depend on the rhetorical features of the argumentative situation Throughout this text author Christopher W Tindale identifies how argumentation as a communicative practice can best be understood by its rhetorical features

The New Rhetoric Chaïm Perelman, L. Olbrechts-Tyteca, 1991-09-30 The New Rhetoric is founded on the idea that since argumentation aims at securing the adherence of those to whom it is addressed it is in its entirety relative to the audience to be influenced says Chaïm Perelman and L Olbrechts Tyteca and they rely in particular for their theory of argumentation on the twin concepts of universal and particular audiences while every argument is directed to a specific individual or group the orator decides what information and what approaches will achieve the greatest adherence according to an ideal audience This ideal Perelman explains can be embodied for example in God in all reasonable and competent men in the man deliberating or in an elite Like particular audiences then the universal audience is never fixed or absolute but depends on the orator the content and goals of the argument and the particular audience to whom the argument is addressed These considerations determine what information constitutes facts and reasonableness and thus help to determine the universal audience that in turn shapes the orator's approach The adherence of an audience is also determined by the orator's use of values a further key concept of the New Rhetoric Perelman's treatment of value and his view of epideictic rhetoric sets his approach apart from that of the ancients and of Aristotle in particular Aristotle's division of rhetoric into three genres forensic deliberative and epideictic is largely motivated by the judgments required for each forensic or legal arguments require verdicts on past action deliberative or political rhetoric seeks judgment on future action and epideictic or ceremonial rhetoric concerns values associated with praise or blame and seeks no specific decisions For Aristotle the epideictic genre was of limited importance in the civic realm since it did not concern facts or policies Perelman in contrast believes not only that epideictic rhetoric warrants more attention but that the values normally limited to that genre are in fact central to all argumentation Epideictic oratory Perelman argues has significant and important argumentation for strengthening the disposition toward action by increasing adherence to the values it lauds These values are central to the persuasiveness of arguments in all rhetorical genres since the orator always attempts to establish a sense of communion centered around particular values recognized by the audience

The Rhetoric of Reason James Crosswhite, 2012-11 Responding to skeptics within higher education and critics without James Crosswhite argues powerfully that the core of a college education should be learning to write a reasoned argument A trained philosopher and director of a university wide composition program Crosswhite challenges his readers teachers of writing and communication philosophers critical theorists and educational administrators to reestablish the traditional role of rhetoric in education To those who have lost faith in the abilities of people to reach reasoned mutual agreements and to others who have attacked the right or wrong model of formal logic this book offers the reminder that the rhetorical tradition has always viewed argumentation as a dialogue a response to changing situations an exchange of persuading listening and understanding Crosswhite s aim is to give new purpose to writing instruction and to students writing to reinvest both with the deep ethical interests of the rhetorical tradition In laying out the elements of argumentation for example he shows that claiming questioning and giving reasons are not simple elements of formal logic but communicative acts with complicated ethical features Students must learn not only how to construct an argument but the purposes responsibilities and consequences of engaging in one Crosswhite supports his aims through a rhetorical reconstruction of reason offering new interpretations of Plato and Aristotle and of the concepts of reflection and dialogue from early modernity through Hegel to Gadamer And in his conclusion he ties these theoretical and historical underpinnings to current problems of higher education the definition of the liberal arts and especially the teaching of written communication Rhetorical Argumentation

Christopher W. Tindale, 2004-05-27 The study of argumentation has primarily focused on logical and dialectical approaches with minimal attention given to the rhetorical facets of argument Rhetorical Argumentation Principles of Theory and Practice approaches argumentation from a rhetorical point of view and demonstrates how logical and dialectical considerations depend on the rhetorical features of the argumentative situation Throughout this text author Christopher W Tindale identifies how argumentation as a communicative practice can best be understood by its rhetorical features Rhetorical Argumentation uniquely presents argumentation through the idea of an invitational rhetoric by encouraging readers to think about the ways in which they encounter arguments The book explores the processes involved in the argumentative exchanges between arguers and audiences thus emphasizing the collaborative nature of the arguer audience relationship in the argumentative situation That is argument is presented not as a set of ideas imposed upon a passive audience but rather as a dynamic exchange wherein the audience is involved in self persuasion Key Features Explores the ancient foundations of rhetoric from Aristotle to the relatively contemporary works of Perelman and Olbrechts Tytecta Toulmin and Bakhtin Includes numerous examples illustrating the ways in which the reasoning within arguments involves the audience from premise through to conclusion Presents the idea of dialogism drawn from the theories of Mikhail Bakhtin to create a more dynamic and interactive sense of the argumentative context Examines current theory as well as the historical relationship between argument and rhetoric Provides detailed discussions of topics such as nature of the dialogical rhetorical context audiences and standards of appraisal Rhetorical Argumentation is designed to provide advanced undergraduate and graduate students with a clear understanding of the rhetorical view of argumentation and how it can be effective in contemporary society The book is an ideal text for courses in Communication Rhetoric Argumentation Informal Logic Critical Thinking and Conflict Resolution

Acts of Arguing Christopher W. Tindale, 1999-11-04 The revival of argumentation theory in the past few decades has focused on its logical and dialectical dimensions with less attention paid to rhetorical features This book explores and then redresses this imbalance Tindale examines important logical and dialectical innovations in recent argumentation theory and shows that they depend implicitly upon rhetorical features of argument that have been suppressed in the account This is illustrated using two extended case studies one looking at Shell International's defense of its actions in Nigeria after the death of Ken Saro Wiwa and the other exploring the uses of character based argument and testimony in a Holocaust denial text and legal trial In addition to the case studies two chapters treat serious problems that plague current argumentation theory The first concerns the nature of fallacy the second concerns the ties between traditional argumentation and a model of rationality that has been seriously critiqued by feminist and postmodernist scholars In both instances the discussion indicates how a rhetorical approach to argumentation offers fresh insights and suggests responses to the questions raised
