Science and the Future Navy. A Symposium Held on October 27-28 1976 NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES-NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL WASHINGTON D C.,1976 These proceedings are the record of a symposium held as one of the key events in the celebration of the Thirtieth Anniversary of the establishment of the Office of Naval Research by Act of Congress in 1946 The symposium had the objective of projecting the many facets of interaction of science and the Navy in the future Science and the Future Navy ,1977 Science and the Future Navy National Academy of Sciences (Washington, D.C.),United States. Office of Naval Research,1977 Science and the Future Navy ,1977 Naval Studies Board 40th Anniversary National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Naval Studies Board,2014-12-22 Forty years ago the Naval Studies Board was created at the request of then Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Elmo R Zumwalt Jr As stated in his request to the National Academy of Sciences he thought it important for the Navy to have an outside resource to which it could turn for independent and outside counsel on any area of its responsibilities involving the interplay of scientific and technical matters with other national issues Admiral Zumwalt together with Under Secretary of the Navy Honorable David S Potter and President of the National Academy of Sciences Dr Philip Handler recognized the importance of not only continuing but also focusing and strengthening the relationship that had existed between the National Academy of Sciences and the Department of the Navy since the Academy s creation in 1863 To commemorate this special anniversary Naval Studies Board 40th Anniversary provides an overview of the history mission and accomplishments of the Board In the coming years the Naval Studies Board will continue to serve as a source of independent long range scientific and technical planning advice for the nation s naval forces It will also work to ensure that the relationships between the operational science engineering and technical communities remain as strong and productive as ever to ensure that progress continues in areas most critical to meeting future naval forces needs Naval Research Reviews ,1979 The Future of American Science Philip Handler,1979 Naval Innovation for the 21st Century Robert Buder,2013-11-15 The Office of Naval Research known widely as ONR was formed in 1946 largely to support the pursuit of basic science to help ensure future U S naval dominance and as such it set the model for the subsequently created National Science Foundation But everything changed after the Cold War The U S entered a period of greater fiscal constraints and the concept of warfare shifted from conventional land and sea battles and super power conflicts to an era of asymmetric warfare where the country might be engaged in many smaller fights in unconventional arenas Naval Innovation in the 21st Century is a narrative account of ONR s efforts to respond to this transformation amidst increasing pressure to focus on programs directly relevant to the Navy but without sacrificing the seed corn of fundamental science the organization helped pioneer Told through the eyes of the admirals leading ONR and the department heads who oversee key programs the book follows the organization as it responds to the fall of the Soviet Union the terrorist attack on the USS Cole in 2000 and subsequent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan These events are inspiring an array of innovations for land and sea Consider unmanned undersea vehicles that can patrol strategic coastlines for months on end novel types of landing craft that can travel up to 2 500 nautical miles without refueling and precision shipborne rail guns whose GPS guided shells can hit targets from hundreds of miles off Other efforts include advanced electronics designed to swap out scores of antennas on ships for two solid state apertures greatly increasing speed and stealth and speed virtual training methods that spare the environment by avoid the need to fire tons of live shells and new ways to protect Marines from improvised explosive devices All these programs some pursued in conventional manner and some set up as skunk works designed to spur out of the box thinking are part of an ongoing evolution that seeks to connect scientific investment more directly to the warfighter without forsaking the Navy s longer term future Naval Innovation in the 21st Century is a narrative history and a story of organizational change centered around the struggles of management and key personnel to adapt to shifting priorities while holding on to their historic core mission of supporting longer term research As such it holds great lessons and insights for how the U S government should fund and maintain military R D in a new era of small ball conflicts and how the country must prepare for the future of warfare
