Sensory Hair Cells:

Sensory Hair Cells Georgii Nikolaevich Akoev, 1993 SENSORY HAIR CELL DEATH AND REGENERATION, 2nd Edition Michael E. Smith, Andrew K. Groves, Allison B. Coffin, 2025-01-23 Sensory hair cells are the mechanosensory receptors of the auditory and vestibular systems in all vertebrates and of the lateral line system of some aquatic vertebrates Hair cells can be damaged and lost due to such factors as aging ototoxic chemicals acoustic trauma infection or genetic factors Loss of these hair cells lead to deficits in hearing and balance and in mammals such deficits are permanent In contrast non mammalian vertebrates exhibit the capability to regenerate missing hair cells Researchers have been examining the process of hair cell death and regeneration in animal models in an attempt to find ways of either preventing hair cell loss or stimulating the production of new hair cells in mammals with the ultimate goal of finding new therapeutics for human sensorineural hearing and balance deficits This has led to a wide array of research on hair cells such as understanding the factors that cause hair cell loss and finding agents that protect them from damage elucidating the apoptotic pathways activated during hair cell death examining the genes and cellular pathways that are regulated during the process of hair cell death and regeneration and characterizing the functional sensory loss and recovery following hair cell death and regeneration This research has involved cell and developmental biologists physiologists geneticists bioinformaticians and otolaryngologists In this Research Topic we wish to summarize and review recent progress of hair cell regeneration research and collate original articles advancing sensory hair cell death and regeneration research into the future On the physiology of the sensory hair cells in the lateral-line... Alfonsus Bernardus Antonius Kroese, 19?? Differentiation of Sensory Hair Cells in the Vertebrate Inner Ear Pamela J. Lanford, 1997 Hair Cell Regeneration, Repair, and Protection Richard J. Salvi, Richard R. Fay, 2008-03-15 Not male pattern baldness but the loss of sensory hair is a very serious topic Sensory hair cells convert sound and motion into our sense of hearing movement and head position In mammals the loss of hair cells is irreversible Or is it Hair cells in other vertebrates are capable of regenerating and recovering partial or complete function This book provides a comprehensive survey of the regeneration of sensory hair cells Sensory Hair Cells Georgij N. Akoev, Yuriy N. Andrianov, 1993-07-27 The acousticolateral system plays an important role in the biological activity of vertebrates It includes the organ of Corti the vestibular and otolith apparatus lateral line organs and electroreceptors Throughout the acousticolateral system the sensory receptors are hair cells Provided here is a comprehensive overview of current research on synaptic transmission in sensory hair cells Morphological characteristics are presented and data on the properties and selectivity of various ionic channels are given The mechanisms of neurotransmitter release from hair cells and the postsynaptic responses of afferent fibres are described and the role of excitatory amino acids is analyzed Sensory Hair Cell Death and Regeneration, 2016 Sensory hair cells are the specialized mechanosensory receptors found in vertebrate auditory vestibular and lateral line organs that transduce vibratory and acoustic stimuli into the sensations of hearing and balance Hair cells can be damaged due to such factors as aging ototoxic chemicals acoustic trauma infection or genetic factors Loss of these hair cells lead to deficits in hearing and balance and in mammals such deficits are permanent In contrast non mammalian vertebrates exhibit the capability to regenerate missing hair cells Researchers have been examining the process of hair cell death and regeneration in animal models in an attempt to find ways of either preventing hair cell loss or stimulating the production of new hair cells in mammals with the ultimate goal of finding new therapeutics for human sensorineural hearing and balance deficits This has led to a wide array of research on sensory hair cells such as understanding the factors that cause hair cell loss and finding agents that protect them from damage elucidating the cell signaling pathways activated during hair cell death examining the genes and cellular pathways that are regulated during the process of hair cell death and regeneration and characterizing the functional sensory loss and recovery following acoustic or ototoxic insults to the inner ear This research has involved cell and developmental biologists physiologists geneticists bioinformaticians and otolaryngologists In this Research Topic we have collated reviews of the past progress of hair cell death and regeneration studies and original research articles advancing sensory hair cell death and regeneration research into the future

Evolution of the Vertebrate Auditory System Geoffrey A. Manley, Richard R. Fay, 2013-12-01 The function of vertebrate hearing is served by a surprising variety of sensory structures in the different groups of fish amphibians reptiles birds and mammals This book discusses the origin specialization and functional properties of sensory hair cells beginning with environmental constraints on acoustic systems and addressing in detail the evolutionary history behind modern structure and function in the vertebrate ear Taking a comparative approach chapters are devoted to each of the vertebrate groups outlining the transition to land existence and the further parallel and independent adaptations of amniotic groups living in air The volume explores in depth the specific properties of hair cells that allowed them to become sensitive to sound and capable of analyzing sounds into their respective frequency components Evolution of the Vertebrate Auditory System is directed to a broad audience of biologists and clinicians from the level of advanced undergraduate students to professionals interested in learning more about the evolution structure and function of the ear

Hair Cells: From Molecules to Function, Volume II Brad Walters, David Z. He, Mary Ann Cheatham, Bernd Fritsch, 2022-11-16

Biophysics Of Hair Cell Sensory Systems - Proceedings Of The International Symposium H Duifhuis, J Wiebe Horst, Pim Van Dijk, Sietse M Van Netten, 1993-11-30 The last decade revealed to auditory researchers that hair cells can not only detect and process mechanical energy but are also able to produce it Thanks to the active hair cell ears can produce otoacoustic emissions This book gives the newest insights into the biophysics and physiology of individual hair cells and integral hair cell systems such as the inner ear and the lateral line organ
