historical methods of enquiry Finding Anglo American philosophy inadequate for the task she shows that a historical perspective is indispensable to a full understanding of musical ontology Goehr examines the concepts and assumptions behind the practice of classical music in the nineteenth century and demonstrates how different they were from those of previous centuries She rejects the finding that the concept of a musical work emerged in the sixteenth century placing its emergence instead around 1800 She describes how the concept of a work then came to define the norms expectations and behaviour that we now associate with classical music Out of the historical thesis Goehr draws philosophical conclusions about the normative functions of concepts and ideals She also addresses current debates among conductors early music performers and avant gardists
