Anti-Submarine Warfare in World War I John Abbatiello, 2006-05-02 Investigating the employment of British aircraft against German submarines during the final years of the First World War this new book places anti submarine campaigns from the air in the wider history of the First World War The Royal Naval Air Service invested heavily in aircraft of all types aeroplanes seaplanes airships and kite balloons in order to counter the German U boats Under the Royal Air Force the air campaign against U boats continued uninterrupted Aircraft bombed German U boat bases in Flanders conducted area and hunting patrols around the coasts of Britain and escorted merchant convoys to safety Despite the fact that aircraft acting alone destroyed only one U boat during the war the overall contribution of naval aviation to foiling U boat attacks was significant Only five merchant vessels succumbed to submarine attack when convoyed by a combined air and surface escort during World War I This book examines aircraft and weapons technology aircrew training and the aircraft production issues that shaped this campaign Then a close examination of anti submarine operations bombing patrols and escort yields a significantly different judgment from existing interpretations of these operations This study is the first to take an objective look at the writing and publication of the naval and air official histories as they told the story of naval aviation during the Great War The author also examines the German view of aircraft effectiveness through German actions prisoner interrogations official histories and memoirs to provide a comparative judgment The conclusion closes with a brief narrative of post war air anti submarine developments and a summary of findings Overall the author concludes that despite the challenges of organization training and production the employment of aircraft against U boats was largely successful during the Great War This book will be of interest to historians of naval and air power history as well as students of World War I and military history in general

Early Naval Air Power Dennis Haslop, 2018-01-03 This book examines the British and German approach to naval air power describing the creation and development of the two naval air service organizations and doctrine This work provides new insights as to how two naval air services were influenced by internal and political interventions and how each was integrated into the organizational structures of the Royal Navy and the Kaiserliche Marine KM Both the Admiralty and the KM made substantial alterations to their organizations and doctrine in the process Principal air doctrines employed are examined chronologically and the application of operational doctrine is described While they adopted similar air doctrines there were differences in operational doctrine which they addressed according to their different requirements This book is a comparative study about the development of organization and air power doctrine in the RNAS Royal Naval Air Service and the IGNAS Imperial German Naval Air Service It investigates public and political interventions and early concepts of air power placing into context the factors which contributed to how naval theorists came to think about the best means of controlling its working medium air space Ultimately it examines the similarities and differences between the RNAS and IGNAS understanding of naval air power within the broader strategic and theoretical framework of their parent of information about the defence of the London area generally and vivid reports from combatants on both sides The Development of British Naval Aviation, 1914-1918 Alexander Howlett, 2021-06-08 The Royal Naval Air Service RNAS revolutionized warfare at sea on land and in the air This little known naval aviation organization introduced and operationalized aircraft carrier strike aerial anti submarine warfare strategic bombing and the air defence of the British Isles more than 20 years before the outbreak of the Second World War Traditionally marginalized in a literature dominated by the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Air Force the RNAS and its innovative practitioners nevertheless shaped the fundamentals of air power and contributed significantly to the Allied victory in the First World War The Development of British Naval Aviation utilizes archival documents and newly published research to resurrect the legacy of the RNAS and demonstrate its central role in Britain's war effort Empire's Noble Son Daryl Moran, 2019-04-01 Some 600 young Australians served with the British Army's Royal Flying Corps RFC during the Great War many losing their lives One young fighter pilot from Melbourne who gave his life was 2nd Lt Lyle Buntine MC the son of the Principal of Caulfield Grammar School Lyle's tragic accidental death following gallant service as a fighter pilot during the Battle of the Somme was notable in that his family preserved every letter newspaper article photograph and artefact associated with his life and active service His extensive correspondence which has never before been published provides the basis for this book which follows his life from his school days to active service in the fledgling RFC and to his untimely death Lyle's letters trace his voyage to and travels around England his life as an officer in the British Army his training adventures on primitive RFC aircraft and his combat experiences on the Western Front including surviving being shot down six times These letters bring to us a forgotten voice from the past resounding with humility and humour coupled with absolute fear Also explored in this book is the manner in which his family and school mourned his death and marked his memory His family's struggle to come to terms with the loss in war of their Empire's Noble Son was an echo of the deep grief manifest in the wider Australian society at the end of the Great War Years May Pass On But Memory Remains A line from the Caulfield Grammar School song The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2009 Tracing Your British and Irish Ancestors Jonathan Scott, 2016-10-31 Jonathan Scott is a freelance writer specializing in family history He is a former deputy editor of Family History Monthly and has penned the Best Websites column for Who Do You Think You Are Magazine since 2007 He also writes the magazine's monthly Around Britain feature and compiles the end of year look ahead at developments online In addition to his work in family history he has compiled Collecting Children's Books and Rare Book Price Guide
