Bryan Trabold, 2018-10-24 The period of apartheid was a perilous time in South Africa's history This book examines the tactics of resistance developed by those working for the Weekly Mail and New Nation two opposition newspapers published in South Africa in the mid and late 1980s The government in an attempt to crack down on the massive political resistance sweeping the country had imposed martial law and imposed even greater restrictions on the press Bryan Trabold examines the writing legal and political strategies developed by those working for these newspapers to challenge the censorship restrictions as much as possible without getting banned Despite the many steps taken by the government to silence them including detaining the editor of New Nation for two years and temporarily closing both newspapers the Weekly Mail and New Nation not only continued to publish but actually increased their circulations and obtained strong domestic and international support New Nation ceased publication in 1994 after South Africa made the transition to democracy but the Weekly Mail now the Mail Guardian continues to publish and remains one of South Africa's most respected newspapers

The Globalization Of Strategy Research Joel Baum, Joseph Lampel, 2010-07-02 This volume brings together various emerging perspectives in strategy research for further interaction and debate Contributions address a range of issues related to the globalization of strategy research and chapters examine strategy theory methods and research as well as strategy as practice discourse and reflexive design Reconstructing Reality in the Courtroom W. Lance Bennett, Martha S.
Feldman, 2014-03-13 Reconstructing Reality in the Courtroom explains what makes stories believable and how ordinary people connect complex legal arguments and evidence presented in trials to assess guilt and innocence The explanation takes the core elements of narrative the who what where when how why and shows how average people who hear hundreds of stories every day use the connections between these elements to assess credibility A series of simple experiments outside the courtroom provides evidence for the explanation showing that there is little relationship between the actual truth of a story and the degree to which the story is believed to be true by an audience of random listeners not familiar with the teller So how do jurors make a particular legal judgment Based on courtroom observation trial transcripts and credibility experiments Bennett and Feldman create a method of diagramming stories that shows exactly what makes some stories more believable than others Prosecutors and defense attorneys can use this method of analyzing stories to weigh the strategies and tactics available to them scholars can use it to assess the process of legal judgment Now in its Second Edition this much cited resource adds a new preface by the authors as well as new forewords from divergent perspectives From his experience in law practice William S Bailey notes that the book offers timeless insights as its authors adapt a broad structural framework of storytelling to the criminal trial context making it come alive in the dynamic real world courtroom environment Law and society scholar Anna Maria Marshall writes that the book's emphasis on storytelling will resonate with scholars studying legal consciousness where narrative plays an important theoretical and methodological role This new edition will be a welcome addition to the Law and Society community Reconstructing Reality in the Courtroom is as timely as it was when this classic was first published Here Bennett and Feldman provide great insight into the importance of storytelling as a basis of justice in American criminal trials It deserves very wide readership Elizabeth F Loftus Distinguished Professor University of California Irvine Author Eyewitness Testimony 1996 This classic law and society study on the power of legal stories is a rich and compelling empirical analysis of the dynamics of story construction in trials The book remains an essential resource for law students litigators academics and any others who wish to understand the interpretive significance of the stories told in the courtroom Jeannine Bell Professor of Law and Neizer Faculty Fellow Indiana University Maurer School of Law Bloomington Author Hate Thy Neighbor 2013 Part of the Classics of Law Society Series from Quid Pro Books various classifiers as in legal practice and teaching practice render it curiously devoid of semantic force In this book practice is the super ordinate organising idea Drawing on what has been termed the practice turn in contemporary theory the work develops a conceptual framework for researching learning in and on practice It challenges received notions of practice questioning the assumptions elisions connotations and silences on the subject In so doing it offers fresh insights into learning and change and how they relate to practice In tandem with this conceptual work the book details site ontological studies of practice and learning in diverse professional and workplace contexts examining the work of occupations as various as doctors chefs and orchestral musicians It demonstrates the value of theorising practice learning and change as well as exploring the connections between them amid our evolving social and institutional structures

Feminist Connections Katherine Fredlund, Kerri Hauman, Jessica Ouellette, 2020-09-29 Highlights feminist rhetorical practices that disrupt and surpass boundaries of time and space In 1917 Alice Paul and other suffragists famously picketed in front of the White House while holding banners with short pithy sayings such as Mr President How long must women wait for Liberty Their juxtaposition of this short phrase with the image of the White House a symbol of liberty and justice relies on the same rhetorical tactics as memes a genre contemporary feminists use frequently to make arguments about reproductive rights Black Lives Matter sex positivity and more Many such connections between feminists of different spaces places and eras have yet to be considered let alone understood Feminist Connections Rhetoric and Activism across Time Space and Place reconsiders feminist rhetorical strategies as linked intergenerational and surprisingly consistent despite the emergence of new forms of media and intersectional considerations Contributors to this volume highlight continuities in feminist rhetorical practices that are often invisible to scholars obscured by time new media and wildly different cultural political and social contexts Thus this collection takes a nonchronological approach to the study of feminist rhetoric grouping chapters by rhetorical practice rather than time content or choice of media By connecting historical contemporary and future trajectories this collection develops three feminist rhetorical frameworks revisionary rhetorics circulatory rhetorics and response rhetorics A theorization of these frameworks explains how feminist rhetorical practices past and present rely on similar but diverse methods to create change and fight oppression Identifying these strategies not only helps us rethink feminist rhetoric from an academic perspective but also allows us to enact feminist activist rhetorics beyond the academy during a time in which feminist scholarship cannot afford to remain behind its hallowed yet insular walls

Hegemony, Discourse, and Political Strategy Thomas Jacobs,2022-10-15 Hegemony Discourse and Political Strategy revisits a question that has long fascinated socialists progressives democrats Greens and Marxists how do left wing forces win at politics Thirty five years ago Ernesto Laclau and Chantal Mouffe tackled this puzzle in ground breaking fashion by drawing on a signature blend of linguistics Marxist theory and poststructuralism that came to be known as post Marxist Discourse Theory PDT This book takes up the legacy of Laclau and Mouffe and elaborates PDT into a full fledged theory of political strategy for the first time It argues that post Marxism provides the foundations for a form of discourse analysis that can explain how political strategies play out as well as why they fail or succeed Its empirical potential to illuminate the dynamics of hegemonic struggles is demonstrated through a case study focusing on the contestation and politicization of EU trade policy in the European Parliament

Rhetoric and the Arts of Design David S. Kaufer, Brian S. Butler, 2013-11-26 The design arts from the design of buildings and machines to software and interfaces are associated with types of knowledge and performance thought to be structured modular and systematic Such arts have become increasingly prestigious in our technocratic society Since Aristotle the art of rhetoric was conceived as a loosely structured practical art thought to be limited in the extent to which it could mimic more precise subject matters The art of rhetoric has been controversial since classical times but its status has sunk even lower since the industrial revolution a point when civic cultures began to cede authority and control to the cultures of specialized experts Many sympathizers of rhetoric have resisted its decline by calling for a civic art of public discourse to stand in opposition to a technocratic specialized discourse that has come increasingly to disenfranchise the ordinary citizen This is the first book to question the rhetoric technical knowledge split from a more fundamental perspective To get some perspective on what is at stake in rhetoric's traditional classification as a practical art the authors explore the distinction between practical and design arts enumerate the various criteria cited in the literature for qualifying a cluster of knowledge and performative skills to count as an art of design show how the knowledge and performative skills associated with the art of rhetoric meet the major requirements of design knowledge propose a general architecture of rhetorical design one descriptive both of civic address and specialized academic argument turn to the Lincoln Douglas debates to embody and provide some empirical support and illustration for their architecture demonstrate how Lincoln and Douglas can be thought of as expert designers whose rhetoric is highly structured and modular and explain how the rhetoric of both rhetorical agents can be represented in the layers and modules that one needs to display plans for buildings software or other design artifacts These layers and modules are not just post hoc annotations of the debates they also illuminate new and systematic ways for viewing the debates and by implication other specimens of rhetoric in terms of strategies of artistic production Kaufer and Butler conclude their presentation by citing some of the research and educational implications that follow from housing rhetoric within the family of design arts human motivation And yet despite its obvious genius critics have interpreted A Rhetoric of Motives as a collection of provocations rather than a systematic treatment of rhetoric In this book Kyle Jensen argues that the coherence in Burke's thought has yet to be fully appreciated Drawing on unpublished drafts and voluminous correspondence he reconstructs Burke's drafting and revision process for A Rhetoric of Motives as well as its recently discovered second volume The War of Words Jensen's extensive archival analysis reveals that Burke relied on the concept of myth to draw together the loose ends in his argument For Burke all general theories of rhetoric are formed and structured using mythic images and terms By exploring what Burke added and omitted and by putting his writing process into the context of daily life after the Second World War including Burke's attempts to clear the weeds from his Andover farm Jensen sheds new light on the key problems that Burke encountered and the methods he used to overcome them Kenneth Burke's Weed Garden is essential for those who study Burke and the tradition of modern rhetoric that he helped found
