Biological Rhythms Jurgen Aschoff, 2013-03-09 Interest in biological rhythms has been traced back more than 2 500 ears to Archilochus the Greek poet who in one of his fragments suggests i VWO KE o olos pv J tos txv pW7rOVS XH recognize what rhythm governs man Aschoff 1974 Reference can also be made to the French student of medicine J J Virey who in his thesis of 1814 used for the first time the expression horloge vivante living clock to describe daily rhythms and to D C W Hufeland 1779 who called the 24 hour period the unit of our natural chronology However it was not until the 1930s that real progress was made in the analysis of biological rhythms and

Erwin Bunning was encouraged to publish the first and still not outdated monograph in the field in 1958 Two years later in the middle of exciting discoveries we took a breather at the Cold Spring Harbor Symposium on Biological Clocks Its survey on rules considered valid at that time and Pittendrigh s anticipating view on the temporal organization of living systems made it a milestone on our way from a more formalistic description of biological rhythms to the understanding of their structural and physiological basis
