Salvation And Health The Interlocking Processes Of Life:

The Treasure of Earthen Vessels James N. Lapsley, Brian H. Childs, David W. Waanders, 1994-01-01 The church is in need of a thoroughly developed understanding of human experience in relation to the divine to deal successfully with the complex issues that are part of life in today's world Contributors to this timely volume speak to that need as they explore the meaning of the soul and spirit in light of contemporary scientific and medical understandings about human life in a pluralistic society

The Empathic God Frank Woggon, 2024-05-07 What if Jesus did not come to die for our sins What if instead Jesus's life and death was intended to provide a way out of our shame While traditional Christian teachings about the atonement emphasize sin as guilt and transgression against God's will and commandments Frank Woggon points out that clinical spiritual care reveals that the human condition is predominantly marked by shame rather than guilt In The Empathic God Woggon examines myopic readings of the Jesus event that in turn have embedded distortions into traditional paradigms of the atonement In contrast Woggon mines narratives of the human condition to engage in a critical examination of the Jesus story As a clinician and ordained Baptist minister Woggon presents the Jesus event as God's empathic initiative toward humanity and convincingly argues that salvation comes through empathy rather than forgiveness Woggon's work constructs a clinical theology of atonement from the perspective of clinical spiritual care The Empathic God calls for a practical response of caring participation in God's ongoing work of salvation through an empathic praxis of spiritual care Most importantly The Empathic God takes seriously that lived human experience is the starting point for theological exploration rather than doctrine This book will help practitioners and students of spiritual care in the Christian tradition to reflect more critically on the intersection of spiritual care practice and theology The book also will challenge pastors ministers of pastoral care chaplains pastoral counselors spiritually oriented therapists to interrogate and re-interpret traumatic shame-filled Christian teachings about the atonement so that they too can join in God's ongoing and liberating work of salvation

Health, Healing and the Church's Mission Willard M. Swartley, 2012-08-02 Does the Christian community have the resources to develop a coherent response to today's health care challenges In a comprehensive survey covering the full scope of the Bible and three millennia of Christian belief and practice Willard Swartley fleshes out the central place of health care in the church's mission

Moving Beyond Individualism in Pastoral Care and Counseling Barbara J McClure, 2011-10-27 Despite astute critiques and available resources for alternative modes of thinking and practicing individualism continues to be a dominating and constraining ideology in the field of pastoral psychotherapy and counseling Philip Rieff was one of the first to highlight the negative implications of individualism in psychotherapeutic theories and practices As heirs and often enthusiasts of the Freudian tradition of which Rieff and others are critical pastoral theologians have felt the sting of his charge and yet the empirical research that McClure presents shows that pastoral counseling practitioners resist change Their attempts to overcome an individualistic perspective have been limited and ineffective because individualism is embedded in the field's dominant theological and theoretical resources, practices and organizational arrangements. Only a radical reappraisal of these will make possible pastoral counseling practices in a post-individualistic mode. McClure proposes several critical transformations broadening and deepening the operative theologies used to guide the healing practice, expanding the role of the pastoral counselor, reimagining the operative anthropology, reclaiming sin and judgment, nuancing the particular against the individual, rethinking the ideal outcome of the practices and reimagining the organizational structures that support the practices. Only this level of revisioning will enable this ministry of the church to move beyond its individualistic limitations and offer healing in more complex, effective and socially adequate ways.

Organizing Life Barbara J. McClure, 2025. The idea that a leader has all the authority and all the answers is wrong. Top down authority and presumed knowledge are not effective modes of leadership in the long run. A more collaborative and distributed model of leadership is required for the sustainability of faith-based organizations in a rapidly changing world. A History of Pastoral Care in America E. Brooks

Holifield, 2005-11-01 Here for the first time the development of pastoral care as a discipline has been documented Dr Holifield details the shift in emphasis from saving souls to supporting individuals in self realization and in the process raises thought provoking questions about the preoccupation with psychological methodology evident in modern society and clergy Every pastor wittingly or unwittingly adopts some theory of pastoral counseling whether it be derived from the seventeenth century or from the twentieth says Dr Holifield From colonial America's intellectual approach to today's therapeutic self culture he explores those theories Theological social economic and psychological threads are interwoven with fascinating conversational examples to show how Protestantism helped to form and was influenced by changing social orders Broad in scope scholarly in detail yet immensely readable this is an important book for clinical pastoral educators students professionals everyone interested in church and social history
