Direction Sense Test

In this chapter, we deal with the questions which are based, the linear distance or displacement or direction between starting and final point.

Direction is a measurement of position of one thing with respect to another thing and displacement is the measurement of distance between the starting and the final point. A successive follow-up of directions is formulated and the candidate is required to ascertain the final direction or the distance between two points. This test is designed to judge the candidate's ability to trace and follow the logical path and sense the direction correctly.

Main Directions

There are four main directions, viz., East, West, North and South. Sun rises in the East. Just opposite of East is West and South is opposite to North.

Abbreviations for these directions are E (East), W(West), N(North) and S(South).

Cardinal Direction

A direction between two main directions is called cardinal direction. Clearly, there are four cardinal directions. They are NE (North-East), NW (North-West), SE (South-East), SW (South-West). Students are advised the use of diagram as given in question for the purpose of sensing directions.

Angle formed between two main directions is 90° and angle formed between a cardinal direction and adjacent main direction is 45° .

Shortest Distance

For finding shortest distance, it is necessary to know Pythagoras Theorem.

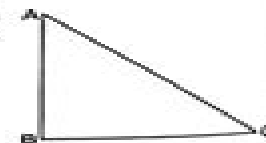

AB = Perpendicular

BC = Base

AC = hypotenuse

Hence, for shortest distance

$$(AC) = \sqrt{AB^2 + BC^2}$$
