Purine Metabolism in Man—II Mathias M. Muller, 2013-11-11 The study of gouty arthritis has provided a common meeting ground for the research interests of both the basic scientist and the clinician The interest of the chemist in gout began 1776 with the isolation of uric acid from a concretion of the urinary tract by the Swedish chemist SCHEELE The same substance was subsequently extracted from a gouty tophus by the British chemist WOLLASTONE in 1797 and a half century later the cause of the deposits of sodium urate in such tophi was traced to a hyperuricemia in the serum of gouty patients by the British physician Alfred Baring GARROD who had also received training in the chemical laboratory and was therefore a fore runner of many of today's clinician investigators The recent surge of progress in understanding of some of the causes of gout in terms of specific enzyme defects marks the entrance of the biochemist into this field of investigation The identification of the first primary defect of purine metabolism associated with over production of uric acid a severe or partial deficiency of the enzyme hypoxanthine guanine phospho ribosyltransferase was achieved less than a decade ago The knowledge of the mechanism of purine over production that it generated led shortly to the identification of families carrying a dominantly possibly X linked inherited increase in the activity of the enzyme phosphoribosylpyrophosphate synthetase as a cause of purine over production Yet this is only a start as these two types of enzyme defects account for less than five per cent of gouty patients

Neurocircuitry and Neuroautonomic Disorders Fuad Lechin, Bertha van der Dijs, Marcel E. Lechin, 2002 The authors of this book developed the only clinical neurochemistry laboratory equipped routinely to assay all circulating neurotransmitters These parameters have been measured in more than 20 000 normal severely diseased depressed stressed and psychosomatic patients The results obtained have been published in more than 100 scientific papers The authors postulated the existence of at least three well defined types of pathophysiologic profiles 1 endogenous depression 2 dysthymic depression and 3 uncoping maladapted to stress Being aware of them clinicians can prescribe distinct neuropharmacological therapies The first and third profiles are also registered in Th1 and Th2 autoimmune diseased patients respectively The first part of the book is devoted to the outline of these central neurocircuitry functions during the wake sleep cycle in normal subjects as well as depressive states uncoping stress psychotics bipolar disorders and panic attacks Due to these neuroautonomic and neuroimmune interactions being noticed various neuropharmacological therapeutic approaches can be referred to In a second part the authors present treatments able to cure or help improve diseases presenting with a Th1 autoimmune profile as well as a Th2 autoimmune profile
