Preparing Competent College Graduates No 96 New Directions For Higher Education:

New Directions for Higher Education, 1975 Student Outcomes Information for Policy-making Patrick T. Terenzini, 1997 Leadership in Times of Change William G. Christ, 1998-10 This volume provides invaluable guidance for communication and media administrators at all levels addressing administrative responsibilities and issues in all types of programs Influences on College Student Learning John M. Braxton, 2014-05-22 An analysis of the different influences on student learning at the college level The volume is part of the Peabody Journal of Education series Integrating Information Literacy Into the College Experience Julia K. Nims, 2003 Disciplines as Frameworks for Student Learning Tim Riordan, James Roth, 2023-07-03 What should students be able to do and how should they be able to think as a result of study in a discipline What does learning in the disciplines look like at different developmental levels How does one go about designing such learning and assessment in the disciplines What institutional structures and processes can assist faculty to engage and teach their disciplines as frameworks for student learning Creating ways to make a discipline come alive for those who are not experts even for students who may not take more than one or two courses in the disciplines they study requires rigorous thought about what really matters in a field and how to engage students in the practice of it Faculty from Alverno College representing a range of liberal arts disciplines chemistry economics history literature mathematics and philosophy here reflect on what it has meant for them to approach their disciplines as frameworks for student learning They present the intellectual biographies of their explorations the insights they have gained and examples of the practices they have adopted The authors all demonstrate how the ways of thinking they have identified as significant for their students in their respective disciplines have affected the way they design learning experiences and assessments They show how they have shaped their teaching around the ways of thinking they want their students to develop within and across their disciplines and what that means in terms of designing assessments that require students to demonstrate their thinking and understanding through application and use This book will appeal to faculty interested in going beyond mere techniques to a more substantive analysis of how their view of their respective disciplines might change when seen through the lens of student learning It will also serve the needs of graduate students trainers of Tas and anyone engaged in faculty development or interested in the scholarship of teaching Measuring What Matters: Competency-Based Learning Models in Higher Education Richard Voorhees, 2001-07-30 Intended as a toolkit for academic administrators faculty and researchers to deal effectively with the rapid emergence of competency based learning models across higher education this volume provides practical advice and proven techniques for implementing and evaluating these models Drawing from a recent National Postsecondary Education Cooperative project that examined data and policy implications across public and private institutions as well as an industrial setting readers will find an inventory of strong practices to utilize in evaluating competency based initiatives Issues discussed include practical concerns of measuring and reporting competency the critical connections between the skills employers seek and student preparation for them the connections between distance education accreditation and competencies and the difficult procedure of setting appropriate passing standards for assessments With a bibliography on competency literature and a framework for creating competency models this volume is an invaluable tool to researchers and practitioners alike This is the 110th issue of the Jossey Bass series New Directions for Institutional Research

Assessment Essentials Catherine A. Palomba, Trudy W. Banta, 1999-05-21 Experts in the field of assessment offer this comprehensive step by step guide to the most current practices for developing assessment programs on college and university campuses Assessment Essentials outlines the assessment process from the first to the last step and is filled with a wealth of illustrative examples to show how assessment is accomplished on today's academic campuses It is especially useful for faculty members and others who may be new to the assessment process New Directions for Institutional Research, 2001

Incentive-based Budgeting Systems in Public Universities Douglas M. Priest, 2002 Financial incentives play an important role in the behaviour of public institutions of higher education Incentive Based Budgeting Systems in Public Universities examines alternative uses of these financial incentives and reviews the consequences of their implementation The contributors to the book explore diverse areas including faculty behaviour in an incentive based environment effects on teaching evaluation of decentralized approaches to budgeting efficiency implications at the state level the ramifications of revenue flux on institutional behaviour Case studies from the University of Toronto the University of Michigan and Indiana University are also presented and the volume concludes with recommendations regarding possible implementation strategies The first to analyse the implementation of various permutations of incentive based budgeting in public institutions of higher education this book will be of enormous interest to policy makers trustees administrators and faculty members of these institutions It will also appeal to those involved in higher education programmes offering courses in the economics and finance of colleges and universities Strategies to Improve College Teaching Andrea Langell Beach, 2002

Learning That Lasts Marcia Mentkowski, 2000-04-06 Work is a deep analytic description of the Alverno College program and also an exemplar of how to analyze and study the impact of a college on student development The Bases of Competence Frederick T. Evers, James C. Rush, Iris Berdrow, 1998-10-02 The Bases of Competence explains what skills and competencies students need to succeed in today's workplace and details how colleges and universities can strengthen the curriculum to cultivate these skills in their undergraduate students The book addresses the continuing disparity between the skills developed in college and the essential skills needed in the dynamic workplace environment By providing a common language from which to work The Bases of Competence enables both educators and employers to create educational experiences of practical and enduring value Drawing on more than a decade of research on companies graduates and students the authors identify four distinct skill combinations most desired by employers Managing Self Communicating Managing People and Tasks and Mobilizing Innovation and Change Using case studies and best practices from a wide variety of institutional settings and workplace environments the authors show how developing competencies narrows the gap between the classroom and work providing students with a portfolio of basic skills that translate into lifelong employability Plan nacional de evaluación de la calidad de las universidades. Indicadores en la universidad: información y decisiones Ministerio de Educación, 2000-06 Recoge informaciones y experiencias que pueden ser de utilidad para el establecimiento de un sistema de indicadores de la enseñanza universitaria Community College Review ,2000 How the Student Credit Hour Shapes Higher Education: The Tie That Binds Jane V. Wellman, 2003-08-21 The student credit hour SCH is truly the coin of the realm within the U S system of higher education Initially designed to translate high school course work it now measures everything from student learning to faculty workload It shapes how time is used and how enrollments are calculated and underpins cost and performance measures This American invention is one of the features that knit together our otherwise disparate system of higher education Yet the rationale for the metric has long since gone unexamined and the measure itself may be perpetuating bad habits that get in the way of institutional change in higher education The chapters in this book deconstruct the SCH credit hour and how it has come to be used in American higher education to examine whether it has become an obstacle to needed change It is a fascinating journey into the sociological evolution of the current organization and governance of American higher education This is the 122nd issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Higher Education Preparing Competent College Graduates: Setting New and Higher Expectations for Student Learning Elizabeth A. Jones, 1997-01-13 Employers policymakers faculty leaders in higher education and the public all are concerned about the development and achievement of key cognitive abilities and communication skills by undergraduates The setting of clear and high expectations for student learning is necessary to help undergraduates reach more advanced levels of achievement In this volume the contributors use the results of a nationwide study conducted by the National Center on Postsecondary Teaching Learning and Assessment to identify specific ways institutions can help undergraduates attain the advanced thinking communication and problem solving skills needed in today's society and workplace Collectively these chapters represent work and initiatives aimed at setting more explicit requirements for student learning that are informed by society's expectations The contributors also describe innovative teaching strategies that can enhance student learning This is the 96th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Higher Education Roles and Responsibilities of the Chief Financial Officer Lucie Lapovsky, Mary P. McKeown-Moak, 2010-01-28 With demands for improved quality increasing competition for state and federal funds and the challenges of integrating technology into the curriculum higher education faces greater economic uncertainties than ever before The chief financial officer CFO of any higher education institution stands squarely in the middle of this maelstrom This issue of New Directions for Higher Education offers CFOs proven strategies for balancing the operating and capital budgets maximizing net enrollment revenues containing costs planning for the resource needs of technology identifying and managing risks and investing the endowment wisely The contributors discuss how CFOs can build positive relationships with key players in the campus's financial planning and budget including admissions and financial aid staff state legislatures and the board investment committee This is the 107th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Higher Education Current Index to Journals in Education ,1997-07 The Life Cycle of a Department Chair John H. Schuh,2004-07-08 This monograph identifies examines and analyzes selected issues related to the career development of the department chair with a special focus on how colleges and universities can assist faculty in preparing themselves for this role and how chairs can be supported during their term of service Chapters examine how chairs can continue to develop their skills while serving in this leadership role and how they can prepare themselves for academic life after they conclude their administrative duties as chair This is the 126th issue of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Higher Education
