Mobilizing Private Climate Financing in Emerging Market and Developing Economies Mr. Ananthakrishnan Prasad, Ms. Elena Loukoianova, Alan Xiaochen Feng, William Oman, 2022-07-27 Global investment to achieve the Paris Agreement's temperature and adaptation goals requires immediate actions first and foremost on climate policies. Policies should be accompanied by commensurate financing flows to close the large financing gap globally and in emerging market and developing economies (EMDEs) in particular. This note discusses potential ways to mobilize domestic and foreign private sector capital in climate finance as a complement to climate-related policies by mitigating relevant risks and constraints through public-private partnerships involving multilateral regional and national development banks. It also overviews the role the IMF can play in the process.

Institution and Human Resource Capacity Building in ASEAN United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 1999. Most southeast Asian countries have until recently had a long period of rapid and reasonably equitable growth. This remarkable performance was achieved largely because sound policies were implemented effectively by capable institutions with competent staff. This is especially true in key policy areas such as macroeconomic management, product transformations, trade and investment promotion and infrastructure development. Many developing economies in Asia and the Pacific, including the new and potentially new members of ASEAN, namely Cambodia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Myanmar and Viet Nam, which are facing enormous challenges resulting from domestic economic reforms and exposure to the international economy, could benefit from the experiences of institution and human resource capacity building in older ASEAN countries. This publication contains an overview and four country studies of Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Thailand.

Climate Change and the Private Sector Craig Hart, 2013-07-24. Climate Change and the Private Sector explores the challenges of transforming our energy infrastructure to become carbon neutral and adapting to climate change in the twenty-first century. It examines the critical role that the private sector must play in these challenges. To transform the global energy complex to be carbon neutral within a time frame designed to prevent irreparable damage to the environment presents unprecedented challenges. The private sector must deploy financial, material and engineering resources on a scale never before undertaken, with government providing leadership, removing barriers and supporting industry efforts through policies that mobilize markets to achieve environmental objectives. A key element of supporting private sector initiative to address climate change is policies that help form and sustain markets that supply finance and generate demand for the technologies necessary to transform our energy infrastructure. The characteristics and examples of these policies are explored in detail. Companies that respond to these challenges, both by mitigating greenhouse gases and adapting to climate change, will enhance their own competitiveness and contribute to society in the process. Companies that embrace the challenge to decarbonize their manufacturing operations, whether in response to regulation or the threat of regulation or market opportunities, invariably discover ways to improve their operations in the process that could potentially enhance their ability to produce better products more efficiently. The book explores examples of companies that have redesigned their products and manufacturing processes and, in doing so, transformed themselves and reshaped their industries. As in the case of companies mitigating greenhouse gas emissions, companies that lead their industries in adapting their own operations to a changing physical environment are more likely to ensure their resilience in a changing business environment This book provides business policy and academic audiences with an in depth exploration of the subject and a practical guide to action The World Bank Group's Partnership with the Global Environment Facility The World Bank,2015-11-18 The World Bank Group was a principal founding partner of the Global Environment Facility GEF in its pilot phase in 1991 and of the restructured GEF in 1994 The Bank plays three different roles in the GEF a as trustee of the GEF and related trust funds b as implementing agency including the implementation of private sector GEF projects by the International Finance Corporation IFC and c as the host organization of the functionally independent GEF secretariat Focusing primarily on the role of the Bank as an implementing agency this review documents how the partnership that the GEF and the World Bank Group established in the early 1990s has evolved over time offers explanations for observed changes and draws a number of lessons The review addresses the following issues The mutual relevance of the World Bank Group and the GEF Inter organizational coordination along the World Bank Group GEF project cycle The introduction of the GEF s resource allocation systems in 2006 and 2010 The evolution and effectiveness of the Bank Group s GEF portfolio Catalytic approaches in the Bank Group GEF partnership co financing blending and mainstreaming The World Bank s corporate activities as a GEF implementing agency The principal purposes of this review are a to help improve the relevance and effectiveness of the Bank Group s partnership with the GEF and b to draw lessons for the Bank Group s partnership with the GEF and other large global partnership programs Mobilization, what Should be Done? what Can be Done? ,1985 Sustainable Waste Management Ravindra K Dhir,Moray D Newlands,Thomas D Dyer,2003-09-10 This volume presents part of the proceedings of two symposia held under the umbrella of Advances in Waste Management an international meeting organised by the University of Dundee's Concrete Technology Unit Corporate Responsibility Coalitions David Grayson,Nelson Jane,2017-09-08 The significance of business led corporate responsibility coalitions is indisputable The WBCSD has 200 member companies with combined annual revenues of US 7 _trillion_ the UN Global Compact has almost 8 000 corporate members over two thirds of them from developing countries It is estimated that there are more than 110 national and international generalist business led CR coalitions But there is now urgent need for informed and balanced analysis of their achievements their progress and their potential Why did these coalitions start and grow What have been their impacts Where are they heading now Where should they be going What is the future In a period of austerity the business and public sector must decide whether funding these coalitions is a priority To meet current crises there will have to be a great deal more business involvement but efforts of individual corporations will not be sufficient There is also a need for far more collective action among companies and more collaborative action between different sectors of society Business led CR coalitions with their decades of convening experience could play an important role in this process if they are fit for purpose going forward Authors David Grayson and Jane Nelson have been actively involved in such coalitions for decades In Corporate Responsibility Coalitions they first explore the past present and future of these coalitions the emergence of new models of collective corporate action over the past four decades the current state of play and the increasing number diversity and complexity in terms of how they not only network with each other but also engage in a much broader universe of institutions that are promoting responsible business practices In addition the book provides in depth profiles of the most strategic effective and long standing coalitions including Business for Social Responsibility Business in the Community CSR Europe Instituto Ethos International Business Leaders Forum the UN Global Compact and the WBCSD This book will be required reading for key supporters and potential partners of such coalitions in companies governments international development agencies foundations non governmental organizations academic institutions and think tanks It also aims to inspire a future generation of leaders to be more aware of the role of business as a partner in driving more inclusive green and responsible growth and to help them develop new types of leadership skills so that they can be effective in finding multi stakeholder solutions to complex and systemic challenges

Tanzania ,1999-01-01 Huge sums have been spent on water and sanitation services in Tanzania but much of that investment is standing idle in the country producing little or no water for the intended beneficiaries A major question is whether any of the investment can be salvaged to reduce the burden of water gathering on the population From Tanzania Social Sector Review Tanzania s social indicators remain among the poorest in the world This report describes the trends in the social sectors and analyzes the factors that influence these trends These trends include the performance of the economy government social sector spending and policy household behavior and incomes and demographic trends Findings from the surveys and case studies are synthesized to provide a comprehensive picture of the demand for and supply of education health water and sanitation nutrition and family planning services The report discusses the situation and trends in the social sector and identifies ways that the government the private sector and households can use their respective resources most effectively
