Skin Cancer Management Deborah MacFarlane, 2010-03-11 The editor of Skin Cancer Management A Practical Approach Dr Deborah MacFarlane gathers experts in selected techniques related to the assessment and management of skin cancer and has them critically review the existing literature in light of their considerable experience delivering care The authors make recommendations for the best way to perform procedures The tables provided in each chapter then become a manual of how to perform these procedures and may in time be adopted by the wider universe of dermatologists as the standard of performance The detailed descriptions of technique and treatment pearls lead the novice through the sequence of events in a way that instills confidence in their ability to safely perform the procedure An example of the painstaking explanations is found in Chapter 5 Intralesional and Perilesional Treatment of Skin Cancers The reader is advised to place eye protection on the patient and those performing the injection of methotrexate into a keratoacanthoma with a central crust Rest assured that there will be a spray or stream of methotrexate emitted from the crusted area Having eye protection will prevent methotrexate from accidentally getting into someone's eye Since we all learn to assimilate new information by taking action on the recommendations that we read it would be a good idea for the physician to create where relevant a checklist for each procedure in the text The checklist can be given to the office staff to set up the equipment for the procedure

Dermatoscopy has been heavily promoted to dermatologists as the front line in detecting skin cancer early and easily. However, this technology also has other uses in everyday dermatologic practice. Dermatoscopy in Clinical Practice shows those already using the equipment how they can extend its use beyond pigmented lesions and exploit its full potential. Dermatoscopy and videodermatoscopy can be used for differential diagnosis, prognostic evaluation, and monitoring response to treatment of various disorders including inflammatory diseases, parasitoses, viral and fungal infections, nonpigmented skin lesions, hair abnormalities, and a large variety of other dermatologic conditions as well as cosmetology. The book focuses on those conditions in which the techniques are most useful, describing the clinical and histopathological correlations associated with the procedure. The book includes color clinical images throughout, making it a handy guide for the dermatologist's daily practice.
