Realist Social Theory The Morphogenetic Approach:

Realist Social Theory Margaret S. Archer, 1995-10-19 Building on her seminal contribution to social theory in Culture and Agency Margaret Archer develops here her morphogenetic approach applying it to the problem of structure and agency. Since structure and agency constitute different levels of stratified social reality each possesses distinctive emergent properties which are real and causally efficacious but irreducible to one another. The problem therefore is shown to be how to link the two rather than conflate them as has been common practice whether in upwards conflation by the aggregation of individual acts downwards conflation through the structural orchestration of agents or more recently in central conflation which holds the two to be mutually constitutive and thus precludes any examination of their interplay by eliding them. Realist social theory the morphogenetic approach thus not only rejects methodological individualism and collectivism but argues that the debate between them has been replaced by a new one between elisionary theorizing such as Giddens' structuration theory and the emergentist theories based on a realist ontology of the social world. The morphogenetic approach is the sociological complement of transcendental realism and together they provide a basis for non conflationary theorizing which is also of direct utility to the practising social analyst.

Rethinking Social Theory Roger Sibeon, 2004-03-27 Identifies and explores unresolved controversies and ambiguities in present day sociological theorizing.

Realist Biography and European Policy Jeffrey David Turk, Adam Mrozowicki, 2013-12-11 Realist Biography and European Policy is the first concerted attempt to integrate the separate strands of critical realism as a developed philosophy for social science with biographical narrative methods as a concrete methodological approach. The main goal is to demonstrate that the combination of critical realism and biographical methods is not only possible but it is exceptionally well suited for the exploration of newly emerging research fields within European policy studies. This volume offers new insights to and is an indispensable reference for researchers in search of solid underpinnings for their own empirical research. Foreword by Miriam Kennet, Director of the Green Economics Institute, Founder and Editor of the International Journal of Green Economics. Contributors: Tatiana Bajuk, Senar Scientific Research Centre of the Slovenian Academy of Sciences and Arts, Institute of Slovenian Ethnology, Bob Carter, University of Leicester, Department of Sociology, Prue Chamberlayne, Open University, Faculty of Health and Social Care, Markieta Domecka, independent researcher, Norbert Kluge, coordinator and adviser for the European Works Council of ThyssenKrupp AG, Lyudmila Nurse, director of Oxford XXI, Elisabetta Perone, University of Naples Federico II, Valeria Pulignano, Centre for Sociological Research, KU Leuven, Antonella Span, University of Naples Federico II, Tom Wengraf, Middlesex University.

Maurice Mandelbaum and American Critical Realism Ian F. Deep Change and Emergent Structures in Global Society Andrea M. Maccarini,2019-03-01 This book addresses the problem of the transition to new forms of social order in the global world As a haunting sense of historical discontinuity pervades Western societies it offers a fresh perspective on the issue focusing on two basic coordinates to pinpoint the developmental path of rapidly changing societies one is the mechanism of unfettered social morphogenesis and the other is the specific kind of societal unification brought about by globalization with the related closure of the world The book draws on the theoretical work produced in the five volumes of the Springer series Social Morphogenesis and applies it in a sustained and concerted approach to the empirical examination of macro social change The first part of the book presents the social ontology of the morphogenetic approach and discusses its capacity to interpret macrosocial transitions The second part then draws a prospective outline of the social formation known as the morphogenic society showing how unbound morphogenesis in a globalized world shapes such crucial phenomena as social norms war and violence openness and closure as adaptive responses from social organizations Lastly the third part examines the anthropological consequences of these societal trends focusing on self and character as well as on human fulfillment and the good life Educational Leadership and Critical Realism Anthony Thorpe,Jean Pierre Elonga Mboyo,2025-09-18 Adopting a critical realist approach to educational leadership this book shows how applied theory can contribute to the development of mechanisms allowing for the effective leadership of organisations Through an examination of pertinent theories and debates in educational leadership and critical realist thought it moves to offer demonstrations of practical uses of critical realism that include the transformation of reflective practice the development and practice of leadership and the formulation as well as the enactment of policy Considering the role that realist thought can play in the resolution of educational crises in sub Saharan Africa and bridging the gap between research and practice the authors argue that change is possible and that it can be initiated from within the field of educational leadership Centred on a vision of social justice for human flourishing instead of operating within narrow and mechanistic pre occupations Educational Leadership and Critical Realism will appeal to scholars across the social sciences as well as to practitioners and policymakers in the field of education What Is a Person? Christian Smith,2010 The task of understanding human beings what we ourselves are our constitution and condition is a perennial problem in philosophy and related disciplines Smith argues here that our understanding of human persons is threatened by technological development and capricious academic theories alike seeking to deny or relativize the personhood of humanity Smith's book puts a stake in the ground in defense of a view of the human that is genuinely humanistic in the traditional sense and capable of sustaining with intellectual coherence things like modern human rights and universal benevolence

Souls in Transition Christian Smith, Patricia Snell, 2009-09-14 Based on candid interviews with thousands of young people tracked over a five year period this book reveals how the religious practices of the teenagers portrayed in Soul Searching have been strengthened challenged and often changed as they have moved into adulthood
