Aging and Quality of Life: Interventions and Outlook for the Future, volume II Shekhar Chauhan,Petra Heidler,David Jean Simon,2024-09-10 The continuous growth of older populations as a consequence of demographic changes is a huge global challenge The growing proportion of older adults not only burdens the healthcare system specifically in developing countries but also posits a challenge at the household level specifically in nuclear and one person households For societies as a whole to avoid costly and negative effects it is crucial to increase their knowledge of how to promote good health among older adults so that they can live longer and enjoy a better quality of life Active aging is the process of optimizing opportunities for health participation and security in order to enhance quality of life as people age An active and healthy life has remained one of the most important aspirations for all people both young and older adults alike This ambition has become a genuine possibility for many due to a rising life expectancy among people of diverse attributes across the world While celebrating longer life and more financial security in later life than ever before we need to challenge how these aspirations can be sustained through our own behavioral responses and through public policy institutional reforms and innovations The challenge is to identify recommend and promote strategies and interventions that stimulate and sustain the activity independence and health of people of all ages especially older adults and in the process promote the well being and quality of life of people and make public welfare systems more sustainable A London Bibliography of the Social Sciences, 1931 Vols 1 4 include material to June 1 1929 Studi je, analize i prikazi, 1991 Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1993 American Book Publishing Record, 2003 Advances in the Diagnosis and Treatment of Hirschsprung Disease and Its Complications Jiexiong Feng, Prem Puri, Devendra Gupta, Weibing Tang, 2022-05-26 Active and Healthy Aging and Quality of Life: Interventions and Outlook for the Future Yulan Lin, Waqas Sami, Mila Nu Nu Htay, Sudip Bhattacharya, 2024-04-15 The continuous growth of older adult populations as a consequence of demographic changes is a huge challenge To prevent costly and negative impacts effects on the population as a whole it is crucial that societies increase their knowledge of promoting good health among older adults to promote good health and a better quality of life in their later years Active aging is the process of optimizing opportunities for health participation and security in order to enhance quality of life as people age An active and healthy life has remained one of the most important aspirations for all people both young and older adults alike This ambition has become a genuine possibility for many due to a rising life expectancy among people of diverse attributes across the world While celebrating longer life and with more financial security in later life than ever before we need to challenge how these aspirations can be sustained through our own behavioural responses and through public policy institutional reforms and innovations The challenge is to identify recommend and promote strategies and interventions that stimulate and sustain the activity independence and health of people of all ages especially older adults and in the process promote the well being and quality of life of people and make public welfare systems more sustainable
